THE HALL OF YOUR HOME.

If a Hall Chest is as yet a stranger to your home you should introduce it with the least possible delay, for as a valiant friend it is well worth having. You'll wonder how you ever got along without it, once it's installed in the hall. It serves the dual purpose of a seat and a receptacle for "odds and ends." We've tried to picture a special Titus offering in

THE BROAD OAK CHEST

As shown above, but we fail utterly to convey a correct idea of its attractiveness in the dull oak finish which brings out every view of the wood so very clearly.

It stands twenty inches high from the floor and measures thirty-seven inches in width. You'll derive satisfaction worth ten times its cost from its all round helpfulness - - - - - - - - - - $12.00

IDENTIFICATION OF "DAGO FRANK,"

Occupant of Murder Car at Time of Shooting.

Gun Man Greatly Shaken by Appearance of an "Unknown."

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—"Dago Frank" Cirofici, one of the four gun men wanted for the killing of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, was identified today as being in the gray "murder car" at the time of the shooting. The identification, which was made by three men, took place a few minutes before Cirofici was taken before the grand jury with the apparent purpose of shaking the nerve of the gun men and forcing a complete confession from him.

One of those who identified Cirofici, along with William Shapiro, driver of the "murder car," was a man whom officials of the prosecutor's office refer to as the "Unknown." Cirofici appeared to be greatly shaken by the appearance of the "Unknown" and a confession of the gun man seemed imminent, officials of the district attorney's office said.

John W. Hart, counsel for Becker, was taken before the grand jury today and asked about an affidavit he is supposed to have obtained from Rose before the latter surrendered. Hart declined to answer, on the ground that it would be unfair to his client, Becker. He was thereupon taken before Judge Mulqueen, who instructed him to answer. District Attorney Whitman then had the lawyer taken back to the grand jury room.

Shapiro had already confessed his part in the affair, and his identification was only a matter of confirming his story. It was reported that "Dago Frank" had confessed and that both he and Shapiro were taken before the grand jury. This proved to be erroneous.

Steps toward corroboration of confessions implicating Police Lieutenant Becker in the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, are to be taken carefully and slowly, in order that, as District Attorney Whitman says, the "whole truth of the relations between the gamblers and the police will come out." Satisfactory progress is being made by Mr. Whitman in supplying the missing links in the confession of "Bald" Jack Rose, "Bridgie" Webber and Harry Vallon, who in their stories to the public prosecutor said that Becker instigated them to the killing of Rosenthal, that the gambler might be silenced before he could tell further of police blackmail.

Mr. Whitman says he has obtained some important testimony confirming parts of Rose's and Webber's story that they met Lieutenant Becker by appointment after the murder. Two restaurant employes, according to the state's attorney, have given the information that they saw Becker talking with Rose and Webber on Forty-Second street after the killing.

District Attorney Whitman, who has been advised by several supreme court justices to go slow, said today that in addition to the testimony of the restaurant employes, he had received information from other sources tending to corroborate Rose, Webber and Vallon. The prosecutor said: "I am confident that the whole truth will come out. It may appear a little slowly, but I am not going to rush the case. The court of appeals had held that there must be some corroboration of the testimony of accomplices. The establishment of a motive is corroboration. There is no doubt in my mind that the motive has been established.

"The intimate relations between Becker and Rosenthal, their quarrel, Becker's fear of Rosenthal, the accusations against Becker, the killing itself, the meeting of Becker and Rose after the killing, all point to one thing."

"The whole conduct of the investigation by the district attorney has been assumed by himself and he is not conferring with the police officials. The prosecutor is using his own staff and private detective to supply him with necessary information. The grand jury will probably not continue its investigations into the Rosenthal case for a few days or until such time as the district attorney has more needed testimony in hand. Whitman is investigating stories that Becker is worth nearly $1,000,000.

The appearance of Sam Schepps is keenly awaited at the prosecutor's office. Schepps and Rose were together just before the murder was committed and Rose, in a further confession to Whitman, says that a few minutes after Rosenthal was killed, Webber, threatened by Becker, turned over $1,000 in bills to Rose who, in turn, gave the money to Schepps. Rose says that Schepps gave the money to the gunmen—Harry Horowitz, otherwise known as "Gib the Blood" and Louis Rosenzweig. If Schepps corroborates Rose of the statement it will be of material advantage to the public prosecutor. Schepps it is understood will be treated leniently if he can show that he did not pull a trigger.

Rose astonished Whitman in his second confession by saying that between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 had been collected annually from gamblers above Fourteenth street but just how much more money was obtained south of Fourteenth street and in the other boroughs of New York he could not say. Rose said further that he did not make the collections from the big gambling houses, but that others did that.

MINOR FIGHTS REPORTED.

Precaution Taken to Prevent More Rioting on London Docks.

LONDON, August 1.—Elaborate precautions were taken today to prevent a repetition of yesterday's rioting in the neighborhood of the London docks. Large forces of police were detailed early this morning to occupy strategic points near the dock gates, and all the men entering the docks were searched for weapons before they were allowed to proceed. Several minor fights took place between the union and non-union laborers and a few arrests were made. The union laborers are rapidly taking the places of the "free" laborers who worked throughout the 10 weeks' strike.

MOTOR BOAT DREAM REACHES BERMUDA.

Wins Challenge Cup in the Race from Philadelphia.

Rough Passage Experienced in Whole Run of 719 Nautical Miles.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 1.—Motor boat Dream, owned by Charles L. Lagen of the Yachtsmen's Club, crossed the line last evening at 3 hours, 44 minutes 5 seconds in the ocean race from Philadelphia for the Bermuda challenge cup.

The Dream, which had a time allowance of 14 hours, 14 minutes, 21 seconds from the Kathemma, the only other competitor in the race, came in sight of land at 7:20 last evening. She had made a rough passage during the whole run of 719 nautical miles and was compelled to heave to Monday for several hours.

The crew of the Dream, consisting of Walter M. Bieling, John Sponse, Fred D. Biddle, George E. Goldbeck, and Thomas Larsen, arrived in an exhausted condition.

Up to 7:30 o'clock this morning nothing had been heard of the Kathemma. The exact elapsed time of the Dream, which started from Philadelphia at 12:15 p. m. Saturday, was 101 hours, 29 minutes, 5 seconds.

Up to noon today motor boat Kathemma had not been sighted. The Dream arrived at Hamilton at 20 minutes past 12 this afternoon, having been delayed at Quarantine.

GOVERNMENT STRANDED.

Congress Again Called Upon to Furnish Emergency Funds.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Congress was called upon again today to furnish emergency funds to carry on the federal government. The delay by the two branches of Congress to agree upon the annual appropriations bill left the government stranded today, with no money to pay clerks, officers or ordinary bills. A resolution was agreed upon by the appropriations committee of both houses to extend the appropriations of last year until August 15. It is expected that all the appropriations will have become law by that time. Passage of the resolution is expected late today.

EMPEROR'S BURIAL PLACE.

Interment May Take Place on Site of Maruyama Palace, Kioto.

TOKIO, Aug. 1.—The mayor and citizens of Tokio are attempting to secure the selection of Tokio or its vicinity as the place of interment of Mutsuhito. It is believed, however, that it will take place on the site of Maruyama Palace at Kioto, which was built by Hideyoshi in the sixteenth century.

The exact date of the imperial funeral has not yet been announced. The special bureau which has been formed for the purpose of making the funeral arrangements, of which Prince Fushimi, Sr., has been appointed chief, and Viscount Watanabe sub-chief, with 41 high officials, meets August 1, and will then probably reach a definite decision as to the date. It is thought that the ceremony will occur at the Aoyama parade ground, where formerly the grand birthday reviews were held.

Following the farewell taken of the late emperor's body by the members of the imperial family, the body was deposited in a casket with a quadruple covering, the outer measuring nine feet by four feet, and then placed in a mourning chamber.

On his way to the Aoyama Palace, where it is understood he will live until after the funeral, the Emperor Yoshihito was given a great ovation, immense crowds gathering along the streets, where they stood with their heads bared.

The Japanese foreign office has notified the foreign powers that the imperial birthday has been changed from November 3 (Mutsuhito's natal day) to August 31 (Yoshihito's birthday).

Business has been resumed in all branches. The banks have re-opened their doors and international exchange is going on as usual.

Japanese officials, the people and the press of the whole country express profound appreciation of the sympathy shown by the United States on the occasion of the death of the late ruler. The newspapers here comment lengthily on the subject, saying that real friendship has been demonstrated both through the President and the press of the United States.

NATURE OF REPLY UNKNOWN.

New Bedford Manufacturers to Answer Weavers' Communication

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 1.—William O. Devoll stated this morning that he had received the communication from the weavers' union, but that he would not give out the contents until he had submitted it to the association for action. Asked if the manufacturers' association would be called together today to act on the communication, Mr. Devoll said that he could not tell.

At labor headquarters this morning satisfaction was expressed that the weavers had taken some action towards trying to get conferences with the manufacturers.

At the Industrial Workers of the World headquarters the move of the weavers was discussed and Secretary Parkinson said that to him it indicated that the weavers, pushed on by the other craft unions, were trying to get out of acknowledged defeat as gracefully as possible. "Why the strike is all over," said Secretary Parkinson, "and when the mill gates open all there will be to it is a grand rush to see who can get in first."

The manufacturers held a meeting this noon and after considering the communication of the weaver's union voted to answer it. The secretary stated that he did not care to state the nature of the communication or the answer, but that he would mail the answer during the afternoon.

TITLE CLEAR AND UNIMPEACHABLE.

Senator Root So Declares in Notification Speech.

Campaign Issues Outlined in Taft's Acceptance.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—President Taft was formally notified today of his nomination by the national Republican convention at Chicago. Surrounded by his family and friends in the historic East room of the White House, the President received from Senator Root, chairman of the committee of notification, his first official information of the convention's action.

"Your title to the nomination is as clear and unimpeachable as the title of any candidate since political conventions began," said Senator Root at the conclusion of his address.

"I accept the nomination which you tender," replied President Taft in beginning his speech of acceptance. "I accept it as an expression of confidence that in a second administration I will serve the public well."

Memories of a weather forecast which promised a sapphire sky and brought a blizzard on the day Mr. Taft was inaugurated changed the plan of having the notification ceremonies on the rear portico which overlooks the gardens, the Washington Monument and a green slope toward the Potomac, and the President and his guests assembled in the East room. The ceremonies could have been held on the lawn, for it was one of those cool, breezy days which breaks a Washington summer and though the big East room was well filled it was not uncomfortable.

Mrs. Taft and Charles, the younger son, had come from their summer cottage at Beverly yesterday. Miss Helen Taft and Robert, the elder son, were not present.

Senator Root's speech, delivered in the tones so well known in the Senate, was heard by all. When he finished the President began reading his speech of acceptance, a printed document of about 10,000 words. The President read in his usual clear and deliberate manner and as he proceeded the guests remaining standing.

Moving-picture machine operators perched upon points of vantage in the corners of the room checked off thousands of feet of film while Senator Root and the President were speaking. It was the first time a moving picture had been taken in the White House. The State Department will preserve one of the rolls in its archives.

As the President proceeded to speak of the issues he followed the text of his manuscript almost to the letter. It appeared that the week spent in its preparation had been one of close attention. When the President came to the portion where he referred to "the maintenance of the nation's principles the preservation of the constitution" many of his hearers thought he spoke with feeling. Then he launched into a denunciation of those who he said were responsible "for the popular unrest," the President spoke with considerable spirit, raising his voice and emphasizing his words by gestures.

While the President was being notified of his nomination the Democrats in the House were firing a fusillade of campaign oratory and eulogizing Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic nominee.

At the conclusion of the speeches a luncheon was served and the White House took on the appearance of one of the mid-winter social functions, though the formalities of dress were lacking.

Although President Taft defined in detail the issues of the campaign as he saw them, he reserved the right to amplify his statement in a letter as the campaign develops.

Everything was ready at the White House early today for the ceremony. The East Room, the scene of many of the historic events of the nation's history, was in its best dress, with its old quartered oak floor polished anew, its tall, wide windows open to the breeze of the Potomac and the finest products of the White House greenhouses everywhere around its walls. The President rose early and had breakfast with Mrs. Taft and Charles, his younger son, who came down from Beverly for the notification.

Unofficially the word had gone out that the notification ceremonies were to be as informal as possible, and most of the Congressmen invited were glad to lay aside frock coats and silk hats. The order had been given for the President's aides to appear in summer uniforms of white, but the marine band, which plays at all White House affairs, knows no uniform but coats of scarlet.

The custom, begun by the Tafts, of serving buffet luncheons made it an easy task to prepare for the comparatively small number asked to be present today. The state dining room was ready for the guests after the program of speech making and hand shaking.

Members of the notification committee in Washington for the event included: Connecticut, Frank B. Weeks; Maine, Edward F. Lawrence; New Hampshire, Charles M. Floyd; Rhode Island, R. L. Beeckman.

The supreme issue that confronts the voters, the President declared, was that of the maintenance of the nation's institutions and the preservation of the constitution, threatened, he said, on the one hand by the Democratic party and on the other by those Republicans who had left the party to try their fortunes in a new one.

Next in importance Mr. Taft places the tariff. In the proposals of the Democrats for reductions in the present schedules, he said, lay danger of business depression and hard times. The Republican principle of revision, only where scientific investigation shows it necessary, marks the straight road to continued prosperity and commercial peace.

In discussing the tariff, the President said that it was untrue that to its doors could be traced the high cost of living and pointed out that conditions of living were alike all over the world. A political promise could not remedy such a condition, he said.

As an issue only less important than the tariff the President placed the regulation of trusts. He said the Sherman law had been enforced with success.

but added that specific acts of unfair trade should be denounced as misdemeanors and that such acts might be avoided or, when committed, punished by summary procedure. Interstate business enterprises, he said, should be offered a federal incorporation law.

Aside from these issues the President pointed to the record of the Republican party and, particularly during his own administration, as an earnest of what it might be expected to do in the future if the people returned it to power in November. He attacked the Democrats at other points than the tariff, making special reference to the refusal of that party in the House of Representatives to continue the naval policy of two battleships a year. Taft did not mention either Colonel Roosevelt or Governor Woodrow Wilson by name but referred to each. While he did not accuse either of embracing the doctrines of socialism, many of the proposals they had made, the President said, savored of it strongly. He closed with a review of his administrative achievements and appealed directly to the conservative voters of the Democratic party to join with the Republicans at the polls.

"I know that in this wide country there are many who call themselves Democrats, who view, with the same aversion that we Republicans do, the radical propositions of change in our form of government that are recklessly advanced to satisfy what is supposed to be popular clamor," said the President.

"They are men who revere the constitution and the institutions of their government with all the love and respect that we could possibly have, men who deprecate disturbances in business conditions and are yearning for that quiet from demagogic agitation which is essential to the enjoyment by the whole people of the great prosperity which the good crops and the present conditions ought to bring us.

"To them I appeal, as to all Republicans, to join us in an earnest effort to avert the political and economic revolution and business paralysis which Republican defeat will bring about. Such misfortune will fall most heavily on the wage earner. May we not hope that he will see what his real interest is, will understand the shallowness of attacks upon existing institutions and deceitful promises of undefined benefit by undefined changes?"

The President had heard officially of his nomination at Chicago from the lips of Senator Elihu Root of New York, chairman of the notification committee.

"I accept it," he began, "as an approval of what I have done under its mandate, and as an expression of confidence that in a second administration I will serve the public well. The issues presented to the convention over which your chairman presided with such a just and even hand made a crisis in the party's life. A faction sought to force the party to violate a valuable and time-honored national tradition by entrusting the power of the Presidency for more than two terms to one man, and that man one whose recently avowed political views would have committed the party to radical proposals involving dangerous changes in our present constitutional form of representative government and our independent judiciary. This occasion is appropriate for the expression of profound gratitude at the victory for the right won at Chicago. By that victory the Republican party was saved for future usefulness."

After reviewing the legislative enactments of the Republican party the President launched into a bitter attack upon "those responsible for the popular unrest" of the present day.

"Started by sensational journalism and unjust and unprincipled muckraking" he said, "demagogues have seized the opportunity to inflame the public mind that they might turn peculiar conditions to their own advantage," in the formation of new parties, the President said, those men have promised the satisfaction of unrest by the application of a panacea.

"In the ultimate analysis, I fear, the equal opportunity which those seek who proclaim the so-called social justice involves a forced division of property, and that means socialism. I venture to say there is no national administration in which more real steps of progress have been taken than in the present one. But as for the millenium, a condition in which the rich are to be made reasonably poor and the poor reasonably rich by law, we are chasing a phantom; we are holding out to those whose unrest we fear, a prospect and a dream, a vision of the impossible.

"I do not say that the two gentlemen, who now lead—one the Democratic party and the other the former Republicans who have left their party in their attacks upon existing conditions and in their attempts to satisfy the popular unrest by promises of remedies, are consciously embracing socialism. The truth is that they do not offer any definite legislation or policy by which the happy conditions they promise are to be brought about, but, if their promises mean anything, they lead directly toward the appropriation of what belongs to one man to another.

"The truth is, my friends, both those who have left the Republican party under the inspiration of their present leader and our old opponents, the Democrats, under their candidate, are going in a direction they do not definitely know, toward an end they can not definitely describe, but with one chief and clear object and that is of acquiring power for their party by popular support through the promise of a change for the better.

"These gentlemen propose to reform the government, whose present defects, if any, are due to the failure of the people to devote as much time as is necessary to their political duties by requiring a political activity by the people three times that which thus far the people have been willing to assume.

"But after we have changed all the governmental machinery so as to permit instantaneous expression of the people in constitutional amendments, in statutes and in recall of public agents, what then?

"Votes are not bread, constitutional amendments are not work, referendums do not pay rent or furnish houses, recalls do not furnish clothing, initiatives do not supply employment or relieve inequalities of condition or of opportunity. We still ought to have set before us the definite plans to bring on complete equality of opportunity and to abolish hardship and evil for humanity. We listen for them in vain."

The President discussed at some length the recall of judges and judicial decisions and the proposals to forbid the use of injunctions to protect property against a secondary boycott and the use of juries in contempt proceedings brought to enforce decrees or orders. The recall of decisions he labelled the "grotesque proposition by the leader of former Republicans who have left their party."

"The Republican party" concluded the President, "stands for none of these innovations. It refuses to make changes simply for the purpose of making a change, and cultivating popular hope that in the change something beneficial, undefined, will take place. We favor the greatest good to the greatest number. We believe that we have made progress from the beginning to now and that the progress is to conclude into the far future; that it is reasonable progress that experience has shown to be really useful and helpful, and from which there is no deadlon to something worse. It is said that this is not an issue in the campaign. It seems to me it is the supreme issue."

CHARGED WITH PERJURY.

Six Division Superintendents of the Boston Elevated Give Bonds.

BOSTON, July 31.—Six division superintendents of the Boston Elevated Railway Company appeared before the clerk of the superior court today and furnished bonds of $1,000 each, after being arrested on indictments charging perjury. The alleged offense was committed, according to the indictments, when the superintendents testified at a strike hearing before the Massachusetts state board of conciliation and arbitration. The men were not called upon to plead to the indictments.

The division superintendents against whom the indictments were returned were Herbert A. Pasho, Joseph L. Webber, Thomas E. Williams, Karl S. Barnes, John A. Smith and John H. Harrington.

A legal representative of the company appeared for the men. After the matter of bail had been arranged the indicted superintendents left the court house. It is understood that before the men are arraigned the question of the validity of the indictments will be contested by the company's attorneys acting for the superintendents.

Successful Lawn Party by Parishes of Holy Cross and St. Mary's Churches.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

The combining of the parishes of Holy Cross and St. Mary's churches in holding the annual lawn party, both in its first and this, proved a pleasant and successful arrangement. This affair was held Wednesday at the Holy Cross Guild House, with an attendance of about 225. Mrs. Phoebe E. T. Manchester, president of Holy Cross Guild, was the general chairman of arrangements, and everything was carried out on lines similar to the previous lawn party.

A large and handsome tent was erected beside the guild house and in it were arranged the sales tables. The tent which was 18 by 30 feet, was entered under a six-foot extension, draped and wound with the national colors, as were the uprights which supported it. Within, the tent poles were massed with golden glow, seven and eight feet high.

The candy and flower table was conducted by Mrs. Frederick Coggeshall and her daughter, Miss Catherine Coggeshall; the St. Mary's table of needlework, worsteds and aprons, Mrs. Allen Barker and Mrs. Lewis R. Manchester; beside it a similar table for Holy Cross Church was in charge of Miss Sarah L. Chase and Mrs. Abram C. Chase; the Junior Auxiliary sales table was conducted by Miss Emeline Brown, assisted by Miss Sarah Underwood. The centre of the tent was occupied by a long cake table in charge of Mrs. Kate Thurston, Mrs. John Baxter and Miss Mary Manchester. A profusion of sweet peas were used as table decorations. Just outside the tent, Miss Annie Almy sold supper tickets and Mrs. John W. McCarter ice cream tickets. Small tables and chairs were arranged about the lawn in pleasing effect.

Supper was served in the guild house from 5 to 8:30, three tables occupying the assembly hall and another the guild room, about 65 being accommodated at each serving. The supper comprised chicken salad, tongue, ham, rolls, pickles, cake and coffee. The supper committees included Mrs. Henry L. Chase and Mrs. J. Lincoln Sherman as chairmen, with a dining room committee comprising Mrs. Clarence Thurston, Mrs. Harold Chase, Mrs. Frederick White and Mrs. Edgar Lewis. The young women of the two parishes made efficient waiters and gave careful service. During the supper a musical program was rendered by Professor Lacier, violin; Mr. Hamilton, cornet, and Miss Florence Carley, piano, who furnished the music in the evening for the dancing.

The guild house entrance was arched by a large American flag draped against the building. Strands of red, white and blue extended to the windows, where draperies of the National colors fell below the sills. Electric light bulbs in red, white and blue were interwoven among the trees, lighting also the entrance and interior of the tent. This effect was contributed by Superintendent Towle of the Newport & Providence electric road.

Within the guild house tall clusters of golden glow filled the corners and these flowers were also used in combination with branches of asparagus on the mantel, in the fireplace, and about the chandelier. The piano was banked with pink phlox and asparagus, making a handsome mass of color. The flowers on the sales table and for decoration were contributed from "Sandy Point Farm" by Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt.

The decorations were the work of Misses Helen and Maud Weaver and Mrs. William Bone, assisted by Dorothy Sherman and Alzatida Coggeshall, Jack Simmons, Robert Chase, Edmund White, Frances B. Underwood, Clifford Champlin, Thornton Sherman and Warren Barker. The social committee included Miss Amma R. Chase and Mrs. William M. Hughes.

An overflow tent at the rear of the guild house greatly facilitated the efforts of the supper committee. Ice cream was also sold out of doors.

The cars brought and carried away a good number at each trip, and even with this accommodation the yard was closely filled by carriages and automobiles. The uncertain weather prevented many from remaining on the lawn late in the evening, although the hall was well filled with dancers.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Beuren are having a second artesian well put in at "Sunnyfields Farm," in the lot north of the stables. The first was sunk on the west side of the road, opposite the farmer's bungalow, formerly the Caswell place. A small American flag has been fastened to the cupola of one of the new barns, which is partly built.

Vines in various places are commencing to show red leaves which look like those of the late autumn.

Mrs. William L. Brown has as guest, her nephew, Russell Morgan Peckham.

The lightning was somewhat vivid throughout the night, but the thunder seemed light.

Mrs. T. J. Sherman, who has been confined to the house for several weeks, was able to spend Wednesday with her brother-in-law, Mr. John D. Blair, and family, on Berkeley avenue.

Mrs. Emily Shea and her grandson Kenneth are spending two weeks with her brother-in-law, Mr. Blair.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse LeValley are visiting Mr. LeValley's relatives in Lockport, N. Y. He will leave in a few days for Hammond, Ind., where he will be located for some time in the employ of the International Steam Pump Company.

PORTSMOUTH.

Dance, Base Ball Game and Clambake for Washington Park Yacht Club.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The dance given Tuesday evening in the Fall River Yacht Club house in honor of the visit of the Washington Park Yacht Club was largely attended, about 300 being present, and the basin has been quite lively since. There was a base ball game Wednesday morning, at noon Mrs. Grinnell served a clambake, and there were water sports in the afternoon. Commodore Duncan Turner is in command of the fleet, his yacht, the White Swan, being the flagship. The clubhouse, the boats of the visiting fleet and many of the home boats were illuminated.

The base ball game at the clambake was between a team from the Washington Park Club, Captain Arthur Landers of the Bauchers, and a picked Hummock team, Captain Herbert A. Rivers, Washington Park won, 9 to 2. About 200 spectators were present.

The fleet left the basin this morning for Wickford and Friday will go to Newport, where it will remain until Sunday morning, going then to Potter's Cove for a clambake. The cruise will be completed Sunday afternoon, having been begun on the Saturday afternoon of the week previous.

The Ladies' Association of St. Paul's Church held a business meeting to settle the receipts and disbursements of the recent lawn party, Wednesday afternoon at the home of Misses Fannie and Grace Hicks. A satisfactory sum was realized, although not equal to that of last year.

It has now been decided that the church picnic will be held at Morton Park and the Newport beach Wednesday, August 7.

St. Anthony's Church received about $300 as the net proceeds of its recent lawn party.

Mrs. Sarah Osgood of Taunton and Miss Esther Parkinson of New Bedford are spending two weeks in town.

Mrs. Hugh Stuart and Misses Catherine and Helen Stuart of Holyoke and Mr. Westland Roy of Westerly are at Island Park for two weeks.

The C. C. Club of Fall River is entertaining at the club here Mr. Jack Topey of Manchester, England.

Miss O'Donnell of Pawtucket is guest of her sister, Mrs. Michael J. Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. McCoy and their son William have returned from an eight-day automobile trip through the Green mountains and the Berkshire hills, traveling about 700 miles. One day was spent on Lake Champlain.

Miss Annie Owens and Miss Mary Sweeney of Fall River are spending a fortnight at Stone Bridge.

Mr. Winn Chase is visiting in Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sullivan of New Jersey are guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Holderness.

"The Fearless Six" are spending two weeks at one of the cottages at Island Park.

M'LOUGHLIN AND BUNDY.

Defeat Hayes and Winston, Earning Honor of Challenging Tennis Title Holders in This City.

Maurice McLoughlin and Thomas C. Bundy of California will play R. D. Little and G. F. Touchard of New York for the national tennis doubles championship in this city August 26. The Californians earned the honor of challenging the title holders by defeating Walter T. Hayes, the Illinois singles champion, and J. H. Winston of Chicago, Wednesday afternoon at the Onwentsia Club, Chicago. The score was 6-0, 7-5, 6-3.

Although the fourth and fifth games of the first set went to deuce, the Californians allowed their opponents only two points in the other four games. The serves of the local men were ineffective and their play erratic. In the second set the Chicago men strengthened and held the Californians even for 10 games. They lobbed excellently, but the coast men played brilliantly, McLoughlin's smashing of deep lobs being a feature.

The third set promised to be as keenly fought as the second but after four games the outcome was never in doubt. The Chicagoans fought gamely, but the placing of the Californians, combined with their return of almost impossible shots, showed clearly their superiority over the local players.

Miss May Sutton and Bundy won the final round of the mixed doubles event, defeating Miss Mary K. Browne and McLoughlin, 6-4, 6-4. All these players were from California.

POINT JUDITH POLO.

Beginning of Open Championship—Three Games Played for Army and Navy Cups.

At the beginning of the national open polo championship Wednesday at the Point Judith Polo Club there was a shade of international interest, through the appearance of A. Balding as back for the Westchester Perroquets. Bryn Mawr had the better of the contest and won by 7½ to 3½. With three minutes to play, Mr. Balding fell and the Perroquets did not think it worth while to finish the period. Mr. Balding was not hurt.

Three games were played for the Army and Navy cups. In the one which the Army team won from the Meadow Brook Canaries, 6 to 3½. Lieutenant Hoyle was hit on the helmet with a mallet and for a few minutes was out of the game. The Canaries, so named because as a minor team they wear a bright yellow instead of the Meadow Brook light blue, played well as individuals, but lacked team manipulation.

The Philadelphia Freebooters met the Kansas City team on even terms and at no time was the result in doubt. The latter lost much of the only goal scored by penalties. The final score was 6 for the Freebooters to one quarter of a goal for Kansas City.

The other game went to Bryn Mawr Second over Dedham Second by 5 to 2½. Why Dedham gave a goal in handicap was not apparent in the play.

The teams in the open championship match were made up as follows:

Bryn Mawr—Joshua Crane, H. W. Harrison, R. E. Strawbridge, C. R. Snowden.

Westchester Perroquets—F. H. Prince, Jr., F. H. Prince, R. L. Agassiz, A. Balding.

Bryn Mawr earned 9 goals, lost 1½ by penalties; net, 7½.

Westchester Perroquets earned 4 goals, lost ½ by penalties; net, 3½.

Goals were made as follows—Harrison 5, Snowden 3, Crane 1; Prince, Jr., 2, Agassiz 1, Balding 1.

HARVEST HANDS NEEDED.

A call for 2,000 extra harvest hands has been issued by the board of trade of Watertown, S. D., at the request of the banks, expressed in behalf of their former patrons. The grain fields are now ready for harvesting, and the farmers face heavy losses unless the wheat and oats are cut in the next few days. The highest wages and all sorts of side inducements are offered.

PERSONALS.

....Mrs. William Howard Taft has gone to Washington to spend a week or more, and to be at the White House at the notification of President Taft of his nomination.

....A letter written by Oliver Cromwell relating to a critical period of the civil war in England has brought $1,650 at auction in London. A letter by Lord Byron on the death of Shelley went for $1,275.

....Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin of Wilkesbarre, Pa., this week received their first visit from the stork, which left three six-pound sons. Mrs. William Rickard of the same city, a sister of Mrs. Martin, received her first visit from the stork last February, when three little Rickards were left.

....Helen and Robert Taft, daughter and son of the President, have completed arrangements for a month's horseback trip through Montana, Friday night they will leave for Minneapolis, where they will be guests of Mrs. George E. Vincent, who will chaperone a party of young people for the outing. Miss Isabelle Vincent was at Bryn Mawr with Miss Helen.

....Rev. J. Chauncey Linsley, rector of Trinity Church, Torrington, Conn., has declined the election to the office of suffragan bishop of the diocese of Connecticut tendered him at the recent convention. He was chosen on the thirteenth ballot. Considerations of health and the fact that he had not desired the election are reasons for the declination. Mr. Linsley is visiting at Oak Bluffs, Mass.

A Slashed and Ribbon-Run Tunic.

The tunic of cream chiffon, weighted with crystal bead embroidery, is cut in deep slashes at bust and hip, and silver and blue shot ribbon is run through the slashes and tied in flat bows, one above the other. The edges of the slashes are not buttonholed, but are turned under and outlined with crystal beads. A girlish hat of leghorn, wound with a Pompadour scarf, and buttoned boots of white calf, complete the costume.

WHEN EASY.

[Adelbert F. Caldwell.]

'Twas easy, when a child, and all was light,
To laugh at those who were afraid at night—
'Twas easy when the sun was shining bright!

'Tis easy when our hearts leap free from care,
To say to those grief stricken: "Don't despair!"
'Tis easy when we have no ills to bear.

'Tis easy, when no rough paths we've to tread,
To say: "Don't mind bruised feet; keep straight ahead!"
'Tis easy when o'er smooth ways we've been led!

'Tis easy when temptations vex not me,
To say: "How foolish he their wretched, cowering slave to be!"
'Tis easy when I from their clutch am free!

Then teach us, Lord, to sympathize with those
Who struggle—how hard only that one knows
Who bears his own—and not another's woes!

FANCIES.

"Is your husband a public-spirited man?"

"Oh! yes; he doesn't care who sees him drink."

Mrs. B.—Woman's work is never done.

Mr. B.—Well, she ought to be glad to have a job.

"You say your boy Hiram is a dreamer. Does he write poetry or romances?"

"Oh! he don't write anything. But he jes' natchelly refuses to get up till 9 o'clock."

Jack—Well, Willie, what admission do you charge to your game?

Willie—Well, if you want to know, it's three cents, but you can't work me for passes just because you come 'round to call on sis, and burn our gas.

Talk about yoh good luck! It sho'ly come my way.
De oyster went in hidin' 'long about de first of May.
I didn't hardly miss 'im, 'cause it wasn' long to wait
Till strawberries was big an' red down by de garden gate.
An' den de strawberries played out an' lef' me purty glum;
But blackberries was right on han' to help my feelin's some.
An' nex' de melons come along mixed in wif sugar corn—
I tells you, chile, we's mighty lucky, even to be born!
Mebbe dar's a rainstorm, but soon it will be dry;
Mebbe dar's a drouth, but rain'll hit us by an' by.
De peach, de apple an' de punkin pie keeps comin' in.
An'—talk about yoh luck!—bout den it's oyster time agin!

JAPAN AND ITS EMPEROR.

The most remarkable thing in regard to the late Mikado is that a reform emperor and a general preparation of the empire for revolutionary reforms should have coincided. Nearly all the real power had for generations been exercised by the shoguns, and yet when this boy of an emperor deposed the shogun he submitted, and while some of his followers resisted and force was employed there was comparatively little of it.

Furthermore, the excuse for the removal of the shogun was the dissatisfaction created by his grant of trading privileges under the Commodore Perry treaty, and yet the removal was effected by the Mikado who was about to revolutionize the country by adopting Western ideas. The shogun was removed for making two open ports by an emperor who opened the whole empire. He had aroused the bitter hostility of the conservative element by allowing foreign men-of-war to buy supplies in certain ports, and was displaced by a ruler who was dead up the law which prohibited the building of a sea-going vessel and make Japan a great naval power.

It was essential to the modernization of Japan that the feudal system should be abolished, and instead of requiring the exercise of the supreme royal authority most of the feudal barons voluntarily surrendered their prerogatives. Nothing like this ever occurred in the Western world or could be imagined outside of books or comic opera.

The whole country seems to have been insensibly preparing for the extraordinary revolution in its political life, its national policies and traditions, and even its social standards, so far as to confer respectability upon the despised mercantile caste. Then, just at the opportune moment, a boy of 15, also permeated with modernism, no one knows how or whence, came to the throne, and with trifling resistance the changes which other nations have been a thousand or two years in making were effected almost as an individual changes a suit of clothes. This remarkable monarch was spared to rule 44 years, perpetuate constitutionalism and defeat China and Russia. It is the greatest wonder in history.

MUNICIPAL PHILANTHROPY THWARTED.

Red tape is responsible for many curious situations and sometimes results in hardship to persons who become involved in it and are unable to extricate themselves. It creates situations which are unusual and interesting and at times causes such conditions as to require much time and trouble to straighten out the difficulties which arise in connection with it. Schenectady is just now experiencing something of this sort and finding itself tied up with red tape so that it cannot perform a charitable act which it had contemplated. It has on hand about 20,000 tons of ice and is unable either to sell it or give it away. The city does not usually engage in the ice business, but in this instance it started to do so with the purpose of providing the commodity cheap for those who could not afford to pay the high prices charged by regular dealers. It was one of those schemes common of late, a municipality attempting to enter into competition with tradesmen by furnishing a supply at cost to the poor, but resulted disastrously for all concerned except the dealers, though in other places such efforts have been rewarded by success.

Last winter the city bought this ice with the intention of disposing of it in summer to the poor, with no thought that there would be any opposition, as the scheme was philanthropic and commended itself to the wisdom of many of the residents. The municipal authorities, however, reckoned without taking into consideration the dealers who did not view kindly this interference with their business, even though it was done with the interest of the poor in mind. They recently decided to take legal measures to prevent the sale of this ice at a figure below the quoted price, and secured an injunction restraining the city from disposing of the crop. It may seem to some as though the court could have decided differently in a case of this kind, where there was no intention to make money, but simply to provide ice at a lower price for those who could not afford to pay the larger amount, but the law is rigid and very likely the court could render no other decision.

At all events the dealers through the medium of the court tied up that ice in the folds of red tape so effectually that the city found it could not even give it away and so must allow it to melt and waste and do no one any good, while poor and sick persons languish for lack of the commodity. It would seem as though some way ought to be found to permit the authorities at least to give away the ice, even if they cannot be allowed to sell it, but that would affect the finances of the dealers just the same as though it was sold, and they have determined to stop the use of that ice whatever happens to those who were to be benefited by it. Aside from the red tape involved in this situation, it should not be overlooked that the conditions are due to the meanness of the dealers, who for the sake of making a few more dollars are willing to thwart a charitable scheme and inflict discomfort and suffering upon adults and children who are not in a situation to help themselves, but for whom the city intended to provide a commodity greatly needed in hot weather.

Some one in this connection has raised the pertinent question why the city can sell water and not frozen water, or ice. Municipalities all over the country are disposing of water to the people and no effort is made to stop that practice, though individuals might engage in the business if the city was not allowed to do it, and in fact there are many individuals in most places who sell spring water to residents. The intricacies of court practice, legal enactments and court decisions, however, are difficult for the lay mind to fathom and not seldom even those educated in the law do not find it easy to understand some of these puzzles. It is unfortunate that this case should have occurred, for the result of the effort at municipal enterprise in behalf of the poor by buying and selling a commodity which is a necessity will be likely to discourage other cities which might be intending to engage in the same practice in some exceptional case. The influence of this incident may, therefore, be far-reaching and show the avarice of these ice dealers in a still stronger light.

SHANKS AND THE GOVERNORSHIP.

Shanks of Indianapolis aspires to be Shanks of Indiana. If he can attain that, he may even be Horace Shanks of the United States; who knows? He is a well advertised man, and the housekeepers might tarleton his side by a large majority. If they do not vote in Indiana, their influence may be supposed to be none the less. Elsewhere they have shown plenty of influence without casting any ballots.

Everybody is talking about the high cost of living. Everybody in politics is wondering whether he cannot turn this fact to good account for himself or his party. The Baltimore platform offers to reduce it by fighting the trusts and lowering duties. News from Oyster Bay is that the cost of living will occupy a prominent place in the third-party arraignment of the Republicans and that loud promises to reduce it will be made.

Shanks actually has a record on this issue. No one can accuse him of merely talking for effect; he has really done something. He is his own platform so far as the cost of living goes, and it goes a good way at present. Shanks is mayor of Indianapolis, and hearing much complaint last year about high prices he undertook to reduce them. He bought provisions in carload lots and sold them at retail at cost. He may have the retail provision dealers against him but he ought to have all the influence which the wives of Indiana can exert to make him governor of his state.

Who else in the political world will undertake to deal thus effectively with the high cost of living? Will Roosevelt? Will he open a provision market? The President is reputed to have given a good deal of attention to a problem which he knows is the cause of much discontent and much of the demand for a change, but it has never been intimated that he would serve as a philanthropic middleman, distributing food at cost and foregoing all profit. If the high cost of living is a political issue it is clear that it belongs to Mayor Lew Shanks, the Hoosier philanthropist.

Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic candidate for President, has spoken on the tariff question. He is for a gradual yet thorough revision, being opposed to any sweeping reduction in schedules and in favor of a slow downward revision of rates. That is a sensible way of looking at it and practically every reasonable man in the country believes in it. The Democrats in Congress have not acted this year along that line, as the revisions which they have proposed have been sweeping.

The railroad companies say they are losing money in carrying the mails, and are against the proposed parcels post, which they think will increase their losses. The New York, New Haven & Hartford, the Boston & Maine and the Maine Central roads, according to a New Haven official, are losing $311,386.92 a year on their mail-carrying contracts.

President Taft will doubtless be grateful for the neckties in red, white and blue sent by a Russian-American, but will he wear 'em?

In spite of the fact that the fly swatting contest is ended, there is still need of fighting the fly, and also plenty of opportunity.

AGAINST BULL MOOSE PARTY.

Progressive Republicans in Congress See No Chance of Success For Roosevelt.

[Washington letter to New York Tribune.]

The Progressive Republicans in Congress, with possibly few exceptions, do not purpose to support the Bull Moose party. This is becoming daily more evident. Many of the Progressives do not like President Taft, but they are rowing more and more loath to abandon the Republican party. They have for a long time struggled against great odds to gain control of the party. They feel that they now have very nearly a majority, and they can see nothing to be gained by abandoning the advantage they now enjoy, the fruits of their long labors, and going out into the wilderness of third parties.

Viewing the situation from a broad point of view, these men believe that only a little patience is needed to enable them to gain control of a great party with seven millions of voters, and that nothing is to be gained for progressive principles by seeking to disrupt this great organization, which, under progressive leadership, may be made so powerful an instrument for the policies for which they stand.

Looking at the situation from a narrower and more personal point of view, the Progressives can perceive only personal disaster for themselves if they separate from the Republican party and become members of the little band of third-termers. The program of Mr. Roosevelt to put in the field complete third-term tickets is especially obnoxious to progressive members of the House, who would thus be forced either to abandon the Republican party, with no hope whatever of success, or to run on the Republican ticket and abandon what they have stood for in the cause of progress.

Then, too, the reports from all sections of the country regarding the progress of the Bull Moose movement are discouraging. Frank Munsey, one of its most prominent sponsors, admits that it cannot succeed. From Oyster Bay come many emissaries who, under promise of absolute secrecy, relate that Colonel Roosevelt himself has no idea that he can be elected.

STOPS FAKE PHOTOGRAPH BUSINESS.

The suppression of the fake photograph business which has prospered at the expense of the President and other distinguished men is aimed at in a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Lodge. The measure is also designed to prevent the use of photographs of persons for advertising purposes without their consent. For either offense it provides for a fine of not more than $1,000, or six months' imprisonment, or both.

The necessity for legislation of this kind was brought to the attention of Senator Lodge by a government inspector engaged in the investigation of the white slave traffic. A man arrested for this crime had in his possession a fake photograph picturing him in the act of shaking hands with the President. It was discovered that he had used the photograph as evidence to impress ignorant persons with his responsibility and high social standing. An extensive trade in pictures of this kind has been carried on by certain Washington photographers. The photographs caught the fancy of a certain class of tourists, who bought them by the dozens to send "back home" as proof that they had shaken hands with President Taft or been slapped on the back by Colonel Roosevelt or other distinguished men.

One section of the Lodge bill, which was prepared by the Department of Justice, prohibits the making, sale or mailing of fake photographs. The other prohibits the use of genuine photographs for advertising or trade purposes without the consent of the person pictured. The bill provides that any person fraudulently and untruthfully represented or whose name, portrait or picture has been used for advertising purposes or purposes of trade without his consent may bring an action in equity to restrain further injury or to recover damages.

GREAT MONEY VAULT PLANNED.

A steel-ribbed, indestructible five-story vault, sunk in the earth beneath the United States assay office in New York, and capable of holding $2,000,000,000 in gold, is planned by Secretary MacVeagh of the Treasury Department.

Gold is purchased by the United States government at the rate of $100,000,000 a year. This treasure, against which gold certificates are issued, is distributed in the vaults of the treasury, sub-treasuries, mints and assay offices. Within a few years, it is estimated, the entire storage capacity of these buildings will have been used. If authorized, the big vault will be erected under the proposed new front portion of the assay office. It will cost $332,000, while the building standing over it will cost only $225,000. Gold bullion, turned into bars, will be piled in the structure like bricks.

NEWPORT TRUST COMPANY,

Chairman Read Thinks Prison Shirt Contract Bad for the State.

Big Dredgers to Begin Work at Field's Point Soon—General Wilson's Republican Dinner.

Walter A. Read, chairman of the Board of State Charities and Corrections, is quoted as saying that he is of the opinion that the shirt contract between the state and the Reliance-Sterling Company is a bad one for the state. This contract is the one whereby the state sells the labor of the prisoners at the state prison and Providence County jail to the shirt company. It is now running on its second term of five years, having been automatically renewed at the expiration of the first term, some few months ago. The State Board of Control and Supply now has the contract under investigation and has asked the Reliance-Sterling Company voluntarily to agree to increase its rate of payments, the board claiming that the state does not receive a proper rate for its product. Before the Board of Control was created the contract matter came under the jurisdiction of the charities board, but now the new Board of Control has charge of the contract and the labor of the prisoners. The contract, when made some six years ago, contained a renewal clause giving the company right to renew for five years more if it so desired, and this renewal formally took place at the end of the first five-year term.

Mayor Fletcher of Providence has received notification from the War Department at Washington that the Denver and the No. 6, two of the largest and most powerful dredgers now in these waters, are to be sent to Field's point and will begin work there August 12. The letter was in response to a request sent by the mayor for information as to the government's program and the possibility of increased activity in carrying out the harbor improvements. Some trouble has arisen, it is said, because of a claim made by Roy F. Beatty, the contractor who is carrying out the improvements for the city, to the effect that the government's end of the contract is not being pushed with sufficient vigor. The communication assured the mayor that everything possible will be done to hurry the work, stating that the dredging firm of Daly & Hannan, the government contractors, figures on completing the contract before freezing weather.

The Republican leaders of the state have been invited to attend a personal dinner, to be given August 6, at the Warwick home of General Charles A. Wilson, chairman of the executive committee of the state central committee. Senators Lippitt and Wetmore will be in attendance if affairs in Washington make it possible, former Senator Aldrich will be present, and so will Governor Pothier and Congressman Utter. There will be no guests from out of the state. The dinner, while not intended as an opening gun of the fall campaign, will have political significance, as it is expected that national affairs will be discussed and Rhode Island's relation to them sketched. Following the dinner Governor Wilson will go to Maine for a vacation. He will preside at the dinner, and will call upon several guests to speak. No formal program has been outlined, but it is understood that persons representative of the various interests in the party will be asked their opinion on national affairs. Some of those who attended the Chicago convention will, in all probability tell what they think of the Roosevelt movement. It is not planned that the dinner shall be in the interests of any candidate so far as Rhode Island is concerned in its own affairs the national issues being placed first on this occasion. A tent large enough to accommodate 300 persons will serve as the dining room. It will be spread on the lawn of General Wilson's estate, which adjoins that of former Senator Aldrich. The dinner will be in the nature of a clambake and will be prepared before the eyes of the guests.

The recent revival in lawn tennis in the upper part of the state has resulted in the formation of a league comprising eight of the leading clubs, which will play a tournament on dates already fixed. The clubs forming the new tennis league are the Agawam, Wannamoisett, Ninigret, Saylesville, East Side, Edgewood, Excelsior and Metacomet. The league was divided by lot into two divisions of four clubs each. The plan was formed for each club in each division to play every other club in its own division one match on its own grounds and one match on the grounds of the other club, and that the first club in each division play at the end of the season two matches, one on its own grounds and one on the grounds of the other club for the championship. The divisions will be known as the upper and the lower. The upper division comprises the Agawam, Wannamoisett, Ninigret and Saylesville clubs; the lower division the East Side, Excelsior, Metacomet and Edgewood clubs. It was decided to bar eight crack players from participating in any of the league matches. The men who will not be allowed to play are Jones, Dana, Gross, Ames, Chace, Mackinney, C. R. Budlong and Henshaw. Six of these are members of the Agawam Club and the others belong to the Wannamoisett Club.

A message, purporting to have been written by Major Archibald Butt, aide to President Taft, and a victim of the Titanic disaster, was picked up in a bottle off Block Island recently by A. J. Loran of New York and W. H. Jones of Paterson, N. J. The message was at first believed to have been the prank of some practical joker, but the fact that it was written on the official wireless blanks of steamer Titanic lends the finder and those who have seen it to believe it may have been written by Major Butt. The message was dated April 16, two days after the steamer went down, and reads: "Mid-ocean. Help. On a raft. Titanic sinking. No water or food." It is signed "Maj. A. Butt." It was found at the same place where six bodies from the wreck of steamer Larchmont were picked up.

The will of Mary Amanda Tucker of Providence makes several public bequests to educational and religious organizations. A preferred legacy is one of $2,000 to the American Baptist Home Mission Society of New York. Wellesley College also receives $2,000, half for an endowment and half for students needing help. The Charitable Baptist Society of the First Baptist Church of Providence is given $100. The house and land at 68 and 70 Barnes street, a double house, are given, one half to the Rhode Island Baptist State Convention, the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society and the American Baptist Home Mission Society and one half to the sons of the late Daniel Worcester Faunce, of whom President Faunce of Brown University is one. To the Rhode Island Baptist Convention, the American Baptist Missionary Union and the American Baptist Publication Society is given the residue of the estate. President Faunce and Thomas E. Bartlett are named as executors.

Amos D. Bridges and Sons, Inc., of Hazardville, Conn., was awarded the contract to build nine miles of bituminous state highway in North Smithfield and Smithfield by the State Board of Public Roads Wednesday. The bid for the work was $62,714.90. Other contracts awarded were as follows: Bristol, one mile—L. H. Callan, Bristol, $6,760.75. Burrillville, one mile—Amos D. Bridges and Sons, Inc., $7,139.03. D. J. Shea submitted a bid of $6,663.46 for the work, but an error in his figures of nearly $1,000 brought the total higher than that of the Bridges concern. Cranston, one-half mile—Charles E. Horne, Millbury, Mass., $3,573.22. Coventry, one mile—Bristow Brothers and Knowles, Narragansett Pier, $7,628.72. In each case two sets of figures were submitted, the first being for waterbound macadam and the other for bituminous construction.

Frederick Roy Martin has resigned the position of editor and treasurer of the Providence Journal and Bulletin, to become assistant general manager of the Associated Press, and will assume his duties in the New York office September 1. At the last annual meeting of the Associated Press Mr. Martin was made a member of the board of directors, succeeding General Charles H. Taylor of the Boston Globe, whom he also replaced in the executive committee of the board. He will resign these positions to become the assistant of Melville E. Stone, who has been general manager ever since the Associated Press was organized.

David S. Barry, Washington correspondent of the Providence Journal and Bulletin, has been selected to take charge of the literary bureau of the Republican national committee during the Presidential campaign. He is one of the best known and most experienced among the newspaper correspondents in Washington.

TO PLAY FOR DANCING.

D'Avino Band to be So Placed at the Beach as to be Heard on the Board Walk.

Lovers of dancing are to be treated to an opportunity to dance to the music of one of the best bands in the country at the Beach Friday evening. Signor D'Avino has consented to play with his entire band of 40 pieces in the pavilion. The music will be selected with due regard to the tastes of the Newport public and the time will be arranged to suit the dancers. Signor D'Avino is noted particularly for his control of his band in this regard.

The band stand has now been provided with a roof, and this with the sides already in place reflects the other tones to the board walk, where they may be more readily enjoyed by all. The announcement that the full band is to play for dancing will no doubt please those lovers of music who do not care for this amusement will not find it unpleasant at the beach, for it is planned to place the band in such a way that while primarily it will be playing for the dancers, the music will resound to a considerable portion of the board walk.

The program for tonight's concert is as follows:

March, The President	Herbert
Overture, Raymond	Thomas
Intermezzo, Cherokee	Edwards
Selection, Three Twins	Hoskins
Waltz, Shantilly	Waldenfel
Medley Selection	Tilzer
Grand Selection Faust	Gonaud

—Mrs. Lund and Miss Mae Lund, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Knutsen, have returned to Boston.

—Mrs. Jacob A. Hatzel of New York and Miss Potter of Providence are guests of Mrs. John H. Taylor on Powel avenue.

—Misses Helen Norton and Norm Shea, who have been visiting relatives in Newport, have returned to their homes in Boston.

—Power boats Minecreel and Kathorine II. are at Williams & Manchesters for painting, etc. The latter hails from Springfield, Mass.

—The arrivals today were chiefly for Jamestown hotels, where the usual changes of the first of the month are on, some going and making way for others to come.

—The highway department is macadamizing County street and setting curb on the south side of La Salle place. One steam roller is at work on Washington street.

—Mr. Dwight F. Rogers, state secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of Ohio, was guest Wednesday night of General Secretary W. H. Chapin of this city.

—A number of men in this city who have been invited to the dinner of General Charles A. Wilson at Warwick Neck propose to go and return in a launch, as a saving of time in transit.

—News has been received from Col. and Coffin who is in the West for an operation by the celebrated Mayo brothers, that an operation was performed Monday and that Colonel Coffin is coming back as soon as possible.

—F. W. Greene sold at auction at noon today the estate of the late Edith B. Wells on Farewell street, containing 4312 square feet of land and a two-room dwelling, to Auguste Sahlin, for $3010 over the $2500 mortgage.

—Steam yacht Wanderer and steamer Transient seem to be the only yachting craft in the cove these days. The North Star came in during the night, bringing Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt from New York. She sailed again this morning.

—Bishop Harkins, who has been visiting Father Meenan at St. Mary's rectory, returned to Providence this afternoon. He will be back for the dedication of St. Augustin's Church next Sunday. Bishop Walsh of Portland, Maine, is expected this afternoon as guest of Father Meenan.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Semlee and D. D. Savage of New York, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Libby of Syracuse, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sheldon and Mr. and Mrs. George D. Chapin of Springfield, Mass., F. A. Andrews of Monson, Mass., and J. D. Adair of Philadelphia are registered at the Perry House.

—A still alarm at 2:23 this afternoon called Combination 2 to the residence of William P. Dawley, foreman of Hasmar 1, at Spring and Fair streets. The only trouble was a soot fire in the stove pipe and the insurance companies will not be called upon to pay anything.

—The crews from the battleships have been practicing steadily for some time past and there is to be some racing Saturday. The crews of the Missouri and Delaware are scheduled to have a match race in the morning and there may be a race for the Battenberg cup, also on Saturday.

—City Sergeant Mumford is in Providence today, to deliver to the Tax Commission a copy of the tax book of 1912. Newporters paying their taxes have not yet received a tax book and the chances are that none will be issued before the time the taxes are supposed to be paid. The date is too late, to the time when the tax book is finished to have the book printed.

—The work of removing the wreck of schooner Mary Adelaide, sunk just outside the Salt Pond, Block Island, has been completed. The wreck of the little sloop Tina B. in Old Warwick harbor has also been removed. The contractors are now at work on the wrecked schooners near Handkerchief light. The Hannah F. Carlton has been removed and the Lois V. Chaples is partly removed.

—Wednesday Captain Monson arrived in the Alice with seven barrels of mackerel and three swordfish. Captain Travers in the Reliance had 2½ barrels and Captain Kent in the Wood Duck 8 barrels. The Independent boys went to work on the dock when the boats landed, with the result that George P. Smith secured them, and the fishermen were glad he was, for it meant so much more money for them.

—On the recent visit to Copenhagen of the New York schoolship Newport, the commanding officer, Captain H. H. Tillman, U. S. N., (retired), was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lodberg, the former a brother of Miss Agnes Lodberg of this city. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Lodberg and their guests were entertained by Captain Tillman on board the Newport, the guests including officers of the Danish army and navy and their wives. Miss Agnes Lodberg came to this country six years ago on the invitation of Captain and Mrs. Tillman, who were then residing in Newport.

THE CANAL ON CANVAS.

Mr. Pretyman's Paintings Show It in a Wealth of Color.

Pictures of Southern Florida and Nassau Also Included in the Exhibit.

Today the hospitable doors of the gallery of the Art Association were again thrown open, the occasion being the opening of an exhibition of pictures of Panama, sketches of the scenes of the Spanish war in Cuba, sketches of Florida and of the Caribbean sea, by Mr. William Pretyman. Wednesday men were busy all day, hanging the pictures, and late in the afternoon the work was completed.

On entering the gallery the impression received is that one has strayed into the garden of Aladdin's enchanted palace and is surrounded by living jewels. Such a riot of color looks down from the walls that eyes accustomed to the lovely greys of the Newport landscape, the tender blues and greens of the waters of Narragansett, are at first dazzled with the sheen and shine of tropical seas and skies, the vivid splendor of the foliage and verdure of the South. Color—dazzling, delicious, intoxicating—is the first, and when all is said the last and lasting, joy of these pictures. A thing of beauty is a joy forever, and picture lovers know, as jewel lovers know, that the thing which grows upon the owner of the picture or the jewel is the color imprisoned in it.

The intellectual interest, however, is great in this collection of pictures, which, to quote the artist, "forms a tribute to America's splendid energy in Panama, in Cuba and in Florida." They are all water colors, legitimate water colors, painted with all the best traditions of the school of the great water colorists, but showing an individuality, an original quality, refreshing to people who haunt picture shows, and who are able to trace in almost everything they see the influence or, this or that master, one or another school.

Mr. Pretyman's pictures would be hard to classify with any others. They do not remind one of any other man's work, and this quality of originality is as much a pleasure in art as it is in human society. Most people—artists, journalists, or tailors—are easily classified as belonging to one or another human type. Now and again there is an artist, a journalist—yes, a tailor, too—who refuses to fit into any class, but must be judged, enjoyed or condemned on his own merits, alone. The painter whose pictures are now being shown at the Art Association gallery is such a rara avis, and his work is seen at its best as it is here shown, all by itself.

The pictures are arranged in seven different groups—the canal, Panama, the ocean, Florida, Nassau, Bahamas and England. Of particular interest to all Americans just now, when the greatest engineering feat the world has ever seen is reaching completion, are the pictures of the Panama canal. In these the artist has used all his skill and all his art to show the poetry inherent in all great human industries. It is very interesting this tribute of an artist and a poet to the mighty feat of skill and labor which, as unique in the world's history, and has won for America a new place among the miracle workers of the ages. For the building of the Panama canal is a labor of Hercules, and it is not wonderful, as Mr. Pretyman was heard to say, that Colonel Goethals is looked upon by those who have seen and understood the magnitude of the work and the part he has played in it, as upon one of nature's royalties.

Here, in the old Huni studio, he who knows how to see and how to imagine, traces the mighty work in many of its phases. No photograph or moving picture gives so true a picture because the photograph is mechanical and the human sympathy and understanding are lacking. The color is missing as well, the wonderful glowing color, the bright sunlights, the rich shadows, the palpitating atmosphere that hangs over the isthmus and is the envelope that holds all the rest.

No. 1 shows The Dock Gates, the actual building at Pedro Miguel docks. No. 2 is the famous Culebra Cut, looking towards the Pacific from Observation Tower. No. 3 shows Pedro Miguel Locks, the future bed of Lake Miraflores, where the Chagres river will be confined seven miles above the dam, and make a vast sheet of water over which ships will pass. The Summit of Culebra Cut showing the method of excavation, and the sharpest curve in the canal's course, 30 degrees, has a certain tragic interest, for in this picture is seen the line where the work of France stopped and America's work began. All the terrific sacrifice that France made of life and labor and genius is in mind as one looks at these pictures of America's triumphant work, and the recurrent thought that the United States has succeeded where France failed because Pasteur, the great French scientist, began the work which Italy so gloriously carried on, of finding the source of the communication of those terrific diseases, yellow fever and malaria, which decimated the French workmen in the poison of the mosquito. Americans have banished the mosquito and disease from the isthmus and to their energy and industry all credit is due, yet one must not forget the part the great scientists of France and Italy have played in the game.

Picture No. 5, The Steam Shovel, an almost human machine, is one of especial interest. The catalogue, which has been admirably prepared, tells that the shovel can fill a train of 20 cars in 45 minutes. The Gatun Dam, and locks looking toward the Atlantic, shows the machine element in the work; No. 5, Culebra Cut looking toward the Pacific, illustrates the human element in the construction.

It seems a thousand pities that this group A, the pictures of the canal, should ever be separated. They belong together as a record of the work of which all are so proud. It is to be hoped that some enlightened person will acquire them, and it is suggested that they ought to be bought for one of the great national institutions—the Smithsonian, for instance.

Hardly less a matter of national pride than the canal is the building of the railroad in southern Florida. The group of pictures marked E shows this stupendous work. No. 35, Arches of the Key West, the ocean from Long Key, is not only a picture of great beauty, but of an especial and national interest.

Not less beautiful are the Nassau pictures. "The Ultrest Sea in all the World" is one of the gems of the collection, and the English scenes in group G have a rare charm. No. 47, Blue Bells of England, is an idyl in sapphire and emerald.

THE IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

Executive Committee Discusses Large Number of Matters of Interest To The City.

The executive committee of the Newport Improvement Association held a long meeting at the rooms of the Newport Historical Society this morning, discussing a large number of matters of interest to the city. There were present Frederick P. Garrettson, chairman of the committee; John Thompson Spencer, president of the association; Peter King, treasurer, Miss Ellen F. Mason, George L. Rives, Henry A. C. Taylor, Mrs. French Vanderbilt and Max Levy, secretary. Mr. Garrettson presided. A large part of the session was occupied with a review of the work of the committee during the past year and action was taken on several matters.

The secretary was directed to consult with the city solicitor as to the status of the suit now in the courts regarding teh extension of Washington street.

The treasurer reported a balance of $639.90 in the treasury. There are now 166 members, representing property in the city taxed for more than $50,000,000.

There was a general discussion regarding the conditions surrounding Almy's pond and the action of the Representative Council in appointing a committee to look into the matter was favorably commented upon.

It was voted to call the attention of the mayor and council to the manner in which the city garbage is collected, objections being made to the late collections especially on Bellevue avenue and adjacent streets. It was also voted to call attention to the littering of the streets with paper, etc.

The chairman was instructed to confer with the railroad company regarding the conditions about the landing place of steamer General, objection being made to the occasional nuisance from the shipment of fish.

The chairman reported that he had carried out the instructions of the committee at an earlier meeting, regarding the care of trees in the parks. He had consulted the members of the Park Commission and a number of trees have been trimmed, scraped and put in better condition.

A large number of other matters were informally discussed and it was voted to refer them to the meeting of the Association, next Monday morning.

JAMESTOWN.

Island Has Severe Thunderstorm With Heavy Rainfall and Several Places Struck by Lightning.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

One of the severest thunderstorms known on the island for years passed over shortly after midnight this morning. The lightning was extremely vivid and the thunder sharp and loud, following the lightning almost instantly.

No serious damage has been reported, although one or two places were struck by the lightning. At the new cottage of Manuel Lewis on Narragansett avenue a few shingles were ripped from the piazza roof. Even the telephone service was not burned out, as is usual in bad electrical storms.

The rainfall was heavy, probably about an inch. This was badly needed by vegetation and will do much good. The dust on the earth roads also received a good wetting.

Mrs. Edward H. Ogden, who died at her summer residence here Wednesday, had been active in the Daughters of the Revolution, having been regent of the society at her home in Riverton, N. J. During the Civil war she maintained a hospital in Riverton for the use of Union soldiers, and not only gave much of her own fortune towards its maintenance but personally assisted the wounded troops taken there from Gettysburg. Mrs. Ogden is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Nevins.

News has been received here of the death of Mr. W. H. Davison of Narragansett Pier, at the Rhode Island Hospital. He was well known on the island, having a studio here one season, and Mrs. Davison being formerly Miss Lillian Brown of this town.

A large attendance is expected at the concert at the Casino, Saturday evening, a bal masque will be given.

The Casino was crowded with dancers again Thursday evening, Mr. Stuart Gilmore having secured a strolling orchestra, which proved a great success.

Mrs. Hengelwooff, wife of the commanding officer of the of the Kansas, has an apartment at Harmony Villa.

Rear Admiral Silas Casey, U. S. N., Mrs. Casey and Miss Casey left for Hot Springs, Va., Wednesday evening, and Lieutenant Commander John Downes, U. S. N., for Washington.

There was a hop on board the New Jersey this afternoon.

PAYMASTER IZARD REPORTS.

Assumes Charge of the Navy Pay Office, Relieving Pay Director Leeds C. Kerr.

Paymaster Walter B. Izard, U. S. N., reported this morning to take charge of the navy pay office in this city. He went to the Naval Station first, to report to Captain William B. Caperton, commanding the Narragansett Bay Naval Station, and on his return assumed charge of the pay office, relieving Pay Director Leeds C. Kerr. The latter, who has been placed on waiting orders, will remain here some time, awaiting orders from the Navy Department. Paymaster Izard found the navy pay office in excellent condition, and with the old force of clerks began at once his new duties.

GOVERNOR FOR PROGRESSIVES.

Hadley Asks Republicans to Stand for Regular Party Organization.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 1.—Governor Hadley gave out a statement last night calling upon all Republicans to stand for the regular party organization in this state. The governor, however, declined to say that he will support President Taft. He said: "It is evident that a number of Republicans throughout the state are joining in the organization of a Progressive party, because of their unwillingness to support the nominees of the Chicago convention. It is not necessary under the laws of this state to join in the formation of a new party in order to vote for Colonel Roosevelt for President.

"I stand and intend to continue to stand in favor of progressive policies, but I have been unable to see how the success of these principles and policies can be subserved by abandoning and thus accomplishing the defeat of the only political party by which they can be made successful in this state. In this campaign, I believe the record of the Republican party in this state shows that it is a truly Progressive party organization."

PASSED BY NEW YORK COURT.

Application for Issuance of Stock for Shares Lost on Titanic Granted.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The first application for the issuance of new stock for shares lost with the Titanic has just been passed upon by the state court here on a motion by a firm of brokers for an order compelling the New York Central railroad to issue a new certificate for 100 shares sent from London by registered mail on that steamship. The court granted the order.

MATANUSKA FIELDS VISITED.

Fuel May be Obtained for Seward Station and Pacific Fleet.

SEWARD, Alaska, Aug. 1.—A party from cruiser Maryland which arrived here last Tuesday, has left for the Matanuska coal fields, from which it is purposed to obtain fuel for the navy coaling station to be established here. A report will be made to the Secretary of the Navy on the feasibility of obtaining coal from the fields for the Pacific fleet.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE.

Buildings at the Ipswich Poor Farm Struck by Lightning.

IPSWICH, Mass., Aug. 1.—Lightning caused damage estimated at $7,000 here today. A bolt struck the barn at the Ipswich poor farm destroying that building, a silo shed, farming tools and wagons, and 40 tons of hay. Twelve cows and a horse were killed.

WHIPPING AS A FINE ART.

[Correspondence London Post.]

The Official Gazette contains an administrative order giving minute directions as to the metod of application of corporal puishment in the Korean peninsula.

The culprit shall lie on his stomach, his hands stretched out above his head and fastened. Straps are to be passed round the body and round the knee joints and arms, with the clothes so arranged as to expose the hips. The executioner shall stand with his whip at arm's length, the tip protruding three inches over the edge of the the prisoner's body. The executioner's left hand shall be on his left side, palm upward, and right foot in advance and bearing the weight of the body.

The stroke is to be delivered perpendicularly, and the skin is under no circumstances to be broken. The punishment is to take place one hour after a meal and the prisoner, if he requires refreshment during the operations, shall be given a drink of fresh water.

The notice has provided the Tokio press with an opportunity for displaying its wit. It is suggested that Mr. Yamamoto, minister of finance, might obtain something toward covering the deficit in the budget by making the spectacle a public one at a charge of a penny a head for spectators.

NOT TO BE THOUGHT OF.

[Washington Star.]

"This sensational story of mine sounds like a chapter from real life in the metropolis," said the confident author.

"Tut! tut!" exclaimed the publisher. "We've got to draw the line somewhere. We couldn't think of offering our readers anything as shocking as that."

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Miss Maria H. Shaw of New York is guest of Mr. E. Livingston Ludlow.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. Casimir DeRham are at Hotel Gotham, New York, for a short stay.

—Chief Machinist W. S. White has been detached from the Georgia and ordered to the Maine.

—Lieutenant Leigh Noyes has been detached from the Florida and ordered home and to wait orders.

—Lieutenant John Rodgers has been detached from the Naval Academy and ordered to command the Yankton.

—Lieutenant Roger Williams has been detached from the Florida and ordered to the Naval War College.

—Mr. Stanley Mortimer arrived Wednesday evening at the Muenchinger-King for his annual visit to Newport.

—Mrs. George Griswold Haven arrived Wednesday evening at Pinard cottage No. 3, which she has rented for the season.

—The Muenchinger-King has recently had additional lights placed on the posts to the fence around the house, which completes the work.

—The operation to which Mr. Andrew Johnson submitted was successful, but he is still at the Newport Hospital, suffering from pneumonia.

—Mrs. W E Hollingshead, with her daughter, of Bayonne, N. J. has been for some time guest of her father, Mr. William S. Bailey, on Sherman street.

—Among the passengers on steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria leaving New York today for Europe, are ex-Mayor Henry Bedlow and Miss Katherine Bayliss.

—Medical Director Howard E Ames, U. S. N., formerly on duty at the Torpedo Station, has been ordered placed on the retired list from August 7, 1912, when he will have reached the age of 62 years.

—Workmen in tearing down the William Sherman & Co. building on Thames street found a rat which was petrified. It was of extraordinary size and was found in a position to indicate that the animal must have made its way into the building when it was erected, 212 years ago.

—The old Kain house on William street, which has been a menace to the neighborhood since it ceased to be habitable, has been torn down and removed. There is anther such house on Lee's wharf, which if possible is even worse than the Kain house was. Part of the rear has fallen and already there has been one fire there. It is open to any passer-by.

HOKE SMITH'S PROPOSITION.

He is Going to Attack the Senatorial Seniority Privilege.

Fight to Divide Responsibility and Business—Growth of Bureaus in the Departments.

[Washington Correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, July 31.—I forget who that mythological chap was who went up against the big thing, brave and earnest, but lost out, but Hoke Smith is going to emulate him. The Georgia Senator is going to attack Senatorial seniority privilege. He is going to make a fight upon grouping the important committee places in the hands of one-third of the Senators because they have longer service than the others.

"I am going to make a fight to divide responsibility and the business of the Senate," said Hoke Smith, "and not to centre it all in those who have long service."

Good bold talk. But if he will read the history of previous attempts to arrange the membership of the different committees so a small group of men would not have all the power he will know that he has a fight on his hands.

Senator Smith has the definite idea of saying and trying to have the Senate say that no one Senator shall occupy places on two of the big committees of the Senate—that is, he would not allow a man to have a place on more than one of the four most important committees of finance, appropriations, judiciary and foreign relations. "Let a man who is on two of the committees choose which he will take," said Smith, "but let him have only one of the places."

Running over the list of Senators who would have to make a choice if Smith's proposition should be adopted by the Senate I find it would affect the following: Bacon of Georgia, Borah of Idaho, Clark of Wyoming, Culberson of Texas, Cullom of Illinois, Lodge of Massachusetts, McCumber of North Dakota, Overman of North Carolina, Rayner of Maryland, Root of New York, Smoot of Utah and Stone of Missouri.

Opposing a provision in an appropriation bill for a topographic survey, Senator Heyburn of Idaho declared that this survey was disastrous to the West and especially to the mining prospector. The present methods of administering our land laws, the forestry policy of the government and the topographical survey, said the Idaho Senator, are driving out the prospector and causing him to disappear as a distinct and useful class.

Speaking of the growth of bureaus in the different departments, Senator Overman called attention to the fact that the child labor bureau recently established, starting with $20,000, was already asking for more money. The bureau of mines, beginning with $100,000, was now expending $1,000,000 every year and would no doubt want more very soon. The North Carolina Senator asserted that no sooner was a bureau established than it began at once to ask for more money from the government. It always gets it, for more money means more places, and the men who make the appropriations hope to get their men in these places.

Senator Reed, criticising the appropriations for national parks in different parts of the country, claimed that they had good scenery in Missouri, but had not asked for national parks. He mentioned among the scenic effects great chasms in that state.

Senator Myers of Montana, a former Missourian, defending the parks, said he know of no great chasms in Missouri. "The chasm to which the Senator from Missouri refers has been filled up and converted into a mountain, as he moved to the state about the time I left it."

Those sticklers for the dignity of the Senate would have several kinds of fits if they could return to the scenes of their domination and find the walls of the Senate covered with maps, drawings, tables of figures and demonstrations. The map in the Senate is not entirely new, but it has been introduced in modern days. Nothing like it can be remembered by the oldest Senate habitues. These maps and illustrations are used by Senators in speaking on Panama, the cost of living and other subjects of debate.

There is not much hope of passing any canal legislation at this session. And just think of the amount of business that is being stacked up for the short session. The Archbald case will take a lot of time, and several other matters which will not be reached before this session ends will be pressing forward, including a number of labor bills passed by the House. The idea of Senatorial business sagacity seems to be to put as much over to the short session as they can and then kill as many measures as possible by never reaching them.

RUM AND RAILROADING.

[New York Tribune.]

The passenger traffic manager of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad says that his company expects to be criticised for stiffening up its rule against the use of intoxicants by its trainmen. Criticised by whom? Certainly not by the public, which does not want to ride in trains manned by drunken crews or crews whose mental faculties are dulled by the irregular habits of dissipation.

If the company is criticised by its employes for its strictness it will do well to keep a watch on the personal habits of its critics. If they want to be free to drink and frequent places where drink is sold they should go into some other employment than railroading, some employment where responsibility for the safety of others is not so great. The grave responsibilities of railroading justify railroads in requiring their employes to live in such a way as to have their faculties alert when on duty. There is no use in making a law to prevent trainmen from working such long hours that they become dull and sleepy when at their posts if they are going to spend their time off not in rest but in dissipation.

CLOUDBURSTS IN DENVER.

Several Villages Inundated and Railroad Traffic Stopped.

DENVER, Aug. 1.—Cloudbursts, followed by raging torrents in gulches, the overflowing of the banks of streams and rivers, inundating several villages and railroad tracks, the washing away of crops and cattle, and the paralysis of railroad traffic and electric power plants, causing many thousands of dollars damage, were reported from several sections of the state last night.

Hundreds of tourists were marooned in Colorado Springs because the railroad tracks in both directions had been carried out. The loss of many head of cattle was reported from Kaner, where the heavy rains were interspersed with hail.

The Arkansas river at Pueblo was at the highest point of the year, although no alarm was felt. Florence, Colo., a small town just west of Pueblo, was reported to be inundated. No loss of life was reported from any point.

RECOVERED FROM THE SEA.

A Sum in Stocks Belonging to Robbins, a Titanic Victim, Found.

YONKERS, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The estate of Alexander Robbins of this city, who was lost on the Titanic, has received word from the secretary of state at Halifax that $5,000 in stocks, which he had with him on his homeward trip, has been recovered from the sea.

HIS POCKETS PICKED.

Pitcher Quinn of the Rochester Club Relates Tale of Woe.

NEW YORK, August 1.—Pitcher Jack Quinn, recently sold by the New York American League team to the Rochester club of the International League, was in New York on his way from Pottsville, Pa., to report to his new manager, and in passing he had a tale of woe to relate, which involved the loss of $125 in good American money. Being warned of the recent activity of New York pickpockets he kept a weather eye open all the way to this city, but when he dug down to pay for his luncheon he was shocked to find that his money was gone.

THE GERM WHICH PRODUCES DANDRUFF
Finally Causes Baldness.--Kill the Germ and Save Your Hair.--Newbro's Herpicide Will Do It

Did you ever try to discover a reason for the dying of a valuable plant? You perhaps found that life was destroyed by some insect or parasite working about the roots and sapping away the elements which go to support plant life.

The dandruff germ exercises the same destructive influence upon the life of the hair. It forces its way down the follicle around the hair bulb and thus prevents the hair from getting proper nourishment. The hair dies and drops out.

Newbro's Herpicide prevents this by killing the germ. It also frees the scalp from the accumulations of dirt and scarf skin. With the removal of these obstacles to a clean, healthy scalp, the hair will grow naturally and luxuriantly.

Herpicide is known as the Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer.

One dollar size bottles are sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

Applications may be obtained at the better barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Send 10c in postage or silver to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., for a nice sample of Herpicide and a booklet telling all about the hair.

CRIMINAL NEGLECT OF SKIN AND HAIR
Cuticura soap and ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little that it is almost criminal not to use them. Think of the suffering entailed by neglected skin troubles—mental because of disfiguration—physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft white hands and good hair. These blessings are often only a matter of a little thoughtful, timely care, viz.:—warm baths with Cuticura soap, assisted when necessary by anointings with Cuticura ointment. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. A liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin, free, on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 16N, Boston.

WITH BATTLESHIP FLEET.

Changes in Division Commanders Take Place and Admiral Ward's Flag Hauled Down.

This morning the changes in division commands of the Atlantic fleet took place. Rear Admiral Aaron Ward hauled down his flag from the Florida, relinquishing the command of the First division, and left later in the day for New York, where he is ordered to duty as supervisor of New York harbor. He will later be assigned to duty with the General Board at Washington.

Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger next in rank among the division commanders, became commander of the First division, on board the Florida. Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow was transferred from the Second to the Third division and the command of the Second squadron, with the Rhode Island as his flagship. Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher shifted from the Fourth to the Second division, with the Louisiana as his flagship. Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher, who comes from Washington, where he has been aide for material, assumed command of the Fourth division, with the Missouri as his flagship. Admiral Fletcher's flag was saluted as he assumed command of the division. He is well known in Newport, where he has served in various capacities, especially in command of the Torpedo Station.

Battleship Alabama, which has been assigned to the Second division in place of the New Hampshire, arrived from Tompkinsville, N. Y., at 2 o'clock this afternoon, saluting the flag of Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, commander-in-chief of the fleet, as she came in past Fort Adams. The Alabama is commanded by Captain James H. Oliver, who was in command of the New Hampshire, the other officers of the latter having also been transferred to the Alabama.

Battleship Mississippi, Captain William J. Maxwell, attached to the Fourth division of the fleet, has been ordered placed in first reserve at the Philadelphia navy yard as soon as possible, for repairs to her crank shaft. The Ohio will be retained in the Fourth division until replaced by the Mississippi. It may take two months to repair the latter.

SMELTER SITE YIELDS $62,000.

Gold, silver and other metals from an old smelter dump at Argentine, Kan., have yielded $62,000 in the last 13 months. The site is now occupied by a structural steel company. Officers of the steel company say that they believe $25,000 more in metal is in the dump. It is said that the company paid $45,000 for the property. In the years of the old Argentine smelter the metal splashed from the ladles and escaped through crevices in the floors of the buildings. The smelter suspended operations 15 years ago.

BEFORE THE SUPREME COURT.

Kansas Primaries Election Case Awaits Justices' Decision.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The Kansas primaries election case, which involves a unique point of great importance in the machinery of the national election, was laid before two justices of the United States Supreme Court here today. Directly or indirectly the decision of these justices will settle whether eight candidates for Presidential electors, who have declared they will vote in the electoral college for Theodore Roosevelt, may have their names on the ballots submitted to the people of Kansas at the Republican primary election there August 6. Emergency action by the court was necessary so that the primary ballots might be printed in time for the election.

The plaintiffs are the Kansas Taft leaders and the action, which takes the form of application for a writ of error, is defended by several attorneys representing the Roosevelt party. The Taft leaders declare that the eight electors they are trying to keep off the ticket were designated with the understanding that they would abide by the decision of the Republican national convention and that if the state primary elected them the results would be contrary to the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution, which forbids any state to interfere with the freedom and privileges of citizens of the United States. The Roosevelt people contend that the voters of Kansas should have the right of referendum on the decision of the committee. The Kansas law is the only one which would permit such a referendum.

The supreme court of Kansas, to which the question was first submitted, held that, regardless of the truth of the charges of fraud and misrepresentation made against the eight Roosevelt electors, it had no power to grant the relief the Taft people asked for.

The application for a writ of error was made by the Taft attorneys to Supreme Court Justice Pitney, who believed that the importance of the dispute made it desirable that other members of the court should sit with him. Owing to the need of haste and the fact that the justices are scattered on their vacations, some difficulty was experienced in getting another member to sit with Justice Pitney, but Justice Van Deventer was able to come here in time for the hearing and, he sat with Justice Pitney at the hearing today. Justice Van Deventer's election was regarded as appropriate, because Kansas is in the eighth circuit of the supreme court cases which come before him on the bench.

KANSAS COURT DECISION.

Nomination of Presidential Electors by State Conventions Proper.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 1.—The supreme court of Nevada yesterday decided that the nomination of Presidential electors by state convention is the proper procedure and that electors are not required to be nominated by state primaries in September. The question arose on an ambiguous wording of the amended state primary act.

ROOSEVELT ENDORSED.

Progressives, Composed Mostly of Mississippi Negroes, Meet in Jackson.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 1.—That faction of the new Progressive party in Mississippi composed largely of negroes held a state convention here and endorsed the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt for President, adopted a platform, and elected 20 delegates to the Chicago convention. White men were nominated for Presidential electors in each of the eight districts.

ADJOURNED UNTIL OCTOBER.

Resolution Committee Unable to Agree on Option Plank in Platform.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 1.—Unable to agree on a local option plank in the platform to be submitted to the Indiana progressive convention today, the resolution committee, after a night of debate, adjourned at 4:30 o'clock until October 1, an hour before the convention was called to meet. A full state ticket was to be chosen and it was confided that former United States Senator Beveridge would lead it as the candidate for governor. Former Congressman Landis had been chosen temporary chairman of the convention and was to deliver a keynote speech.

APPEAL TO UNITED STATES.

Country Asked to Secure Protection for Americans in Mexico.

EL PASO, Texas, August 1.—Scores of messages have been sent from El Paso and other border towns to Washington appealing to the United States to take some steps which will secure protection for Americans in Mexico. In many instances messages are being sent in the names of entire communities. The arrival late last night of two trainloads of Mormon refugees has brought the number here to a full 2,500. Dignitaries of the Mormon Church are arranging to send many of their people to other cities.

PANAMA CANAL MACHINERY.

Colonel Goethals Says Apparatus Will be Disposed of on Completion of Waterway.

The biggest bargain sale of machinery in history is promised upon the completion of the Panama canal. To dispose of machinery costing more than $15,000,000 is the problem confronting government authorities when the canal is opened and the first specifications are now available, though long since understood in a general way.

Colonel Goethals, superintendent of the canal work, reports actual figures of machinery bought since the United States began digging the "big ditch." Here are a few of the principal items: Steam shovels, 102; cars, 4,181; locomotives, 139; rock drills, 725; cranes, 79; dredges, 14; barges, 44. Many of the locomotives and cars will be useful in operating the canal and the Panama railroad, but most of the dredges and steam shovels, and literally mountains of other steel implements, will be put on the block for sale.

Secretary of the Interior Fisher has suggested the plan of transferring much of the discarded machinery to Alaska for use in constructing a government railroad to the interior of that territory. If Congress does not authorize the federal railway in Alaska most of the Panama machinery must be sold for the best price it will bring.

Colonel Goethals emphatically declares that the record of the French in leaving discarded machinery to rot and rust will not be repeated by this country. Uncle Sam is too thrifty. Old, corroded, discarded machinery once used by the French in their attempts to dig a canal remain as monuments of their failure, lining the canal route until the Americans took charge. Some of the old French material was used, but most of it was dumped into the jungle far away from the excavations of today.

FOR THE LOCAL GREEKS.

Rev. Mr. Golden Trying to Teach the Highest Ideals of American Citizenship.

Rev. Meletios Golden of Athens, Greece, is visiting Newport for a short time, investigating the conditions of the local Greeks and as a free lance missionary trying to organize them into the Greek-American Christian Association, of which he is the founder in this country. He has a wide experience in the ecclesiastical field, being the Archimandrites of the Greek Church in Athens, member of the Grand Assembly of Monarteries, at Mt. Athos, Turkey, and grand chaplain and orator of the Grand Lodge of Free Masons in Greece. At the present time he is an active member of the Massachusetts Consistory, S. P. R. S.

As a lecturer in churches, Young Men Christian Associations and Clubs, he has made a favorable impression for his original ideas as to the regeneration of the Greek nation, and as a social worker he has distinguished himself in Los Angeles, Cal., Chicago, and Peoria, Ill., and New England. His headquarters are in New York, where he married Miss Sadie Eleanor Street, one of the leading workers in the Calvary Baptist Church, of which Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur was pastor. In that capacity, Dr. MacArthur officiated at the wedding of Rev. and Mrs. Golden.

Rev. Mr. Golden is of the opinion that the 350,000 Greeks in the United States can only be saved by the enforcement of the "Equal Immigration for Women" law, advocated by President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard University. Strict search has been made all over the United States to ascertain the number of Greek women in America and they do not exceed 7,000, young girls included. There are more than 300 men here in Newport and not more than ten Greek families established here. To these men Rev. Mr. Golden is trying to teach the highest ideals of American citizenship, so that they may learn to marry and live a natural life.

THE DEEPEST DEEP.

[Dundee Advertiser.]

The depth of 9,780 metres to which the sounding line of a German survey ship is said to have sunk in the Pacific ocean near the Philippine Islands is some 1,000 metres deeper than the previous deepest sounding. Of the total water surface of the globe—145,000,000 square miles—about one third stands more than three miles above the bottom of the sea, but until now no part of the great oceans has been discovered deep enough to submerge Mount Everest. But if there is no mistake about this depth of 9,780 metres (32,088 feet), the world's highest mountain could be sunk there until its highest peak was 3,000 feet below the water's level. The deepest soundings have all been made in the Pacific; 23,250 feet is the record of the Atlantic, in proximity to the West Indian island of St. Thomas; while the North Sea averages only 300 feet, or about one-tenth the maximum depth of the icy waters of the Arctic ocean.

10—Some very substantial gains were recorded in the early dealings on the Stock Exchange today. Canadian Pacific added to its new high record with an advance of 4 points, Biscuit over 2, American Tobacco 3 and 1-point advances in a number of active issues. Trading was in larger volume than recently, with practically no declines.

11—Profit-taking sales kept the leading stocks from rising above the opening level, but some of the inactive issues made good gains.

Noon—Stocks displayed a strong and at times buoyant tendency today. Business was far in excess of recent periods, trading in the first hour approximating 200,000 shares. The movement was regarded as an earnest demonstration of bullish confidence—the most pronounced, in fact, this summer. Gains of a point or better were made by all important active issues. Canadian Pacific added four points to its record price of the previous day, and the American Tobacco issues as much, the latter, however, receding materially before noon when the market became dull. St. Paul's strength was accepted as an intimation of an unchanged dividend. Bonds were steady. Money on call, steady, at 2¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4¼ @ 5 per cent. SILENCERS FOR MOTOR BOATS.

Mr. Theodore M. Davis to Provide, Free, the Best Type for the Noisiest Craft.

Mr. Theodore M. Davis has a new way of solving the perplexing question of motor boat noise. His estate is the nearest to Brenton's point and he has the best chance to hear every fishing boat as it goes out in the early morning hours, when the noise is most objectionable and can the most easily heard. He ascertained, by making inquiries, that the most efficient silencer known was that made by the Lathrop Engine Company and called the Lathrop silencer, and he had the local agent, James T. O'Connell, equip what seemed to be the noisiest boat, owned by Nones, with one of the silencers. The Nones boat was sailed around the point for an hour or more and Mr. Davis had an opportunity to hear it from every quarter where a boat could go.

The result was satisfactory to him and he has given orders to have silencers put on other boats which are noisy, and he will pay the bills. The fishermen have their boats equipped with mufflers, but some of them do not appear to muffle very well. Mr. Davis thought that, as the men had already done their part by equipping their boats with mufflers, he would do his by supplying those which are noisy with the new silencer, free of cost to the fishermen. Thus he eliminates the noise, and there is no expense to the fishermen.

Really the noisiest boats in the harbor are some of Uncle Sam's motor craft from the destroyers. They can make a noise out of all proportion to their size and horse power, and if some of them ever had a muffler it must have been lost. There seems to be no good reason why the navy should not equip its power boats with efficient mufflers.

ALDRICH A CANDIDATE?

Rumor in Washington That He May be Stated to Succeed Senator Wetmore.

A Washington despatch says: "A statement made by Senator Bradley of Kentucky Wednesday, to the effect that what the Senate needs in the present condition of headless disorganization is the return of some of its old leaders like Nelson W. Aldrich, has given rise to the rumor that Mr. Aldrich may be a candidate to succeed Senator Wetmore. The report has aroused considerable comment and discussion in Washington, where, however, little or nothing is known of Mr. Aldrich's political or personal plans.

A despatch from Providence says the rumors are not taken seriously by Republican party leaders there. General Charles A. Wilson, the recognized head of the party organization in Rhode Island, characterized the talk as "mere nonsense." He said that in his opinion Mr. Aldrich would not return to the Senate under any circumstances. Senator Aldrich was in New York today on board his yacht, the Owera.

TAKE THE MIANETUCK DOUBLES.

Williams and Brown Win from Peckham and Beck by Superior Play.

William Williams and J. S. Brown, Jr., won the finals in the doubles tournament at the Mianetuck Tennis Club Wednesday afternoon, defeating W. A. Peckham and Charles Beck in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. The match was replete with sharp play, the losers putting up a stronger game than the score indicated, though completely overmatched by Williams's steadiness and Brown's smashing overhead play and persistent lobbing. There was a large number of spectators, who frequently applauded the good plays.

Williams and Brown are now ready to challenge last year's champions, Simmons and Hathaway, but it is doubtful if a match can be arranged. Mr. Hathaway can come from Philadelphia only on Saturday, and on that day Mr. Brown expects to go to Providence to play in the state tournament. If possible, however, a meeting between the teams will be arranged. Should this be found to be impracticable, Mr. Simmons with Mr. R. Wallace Peckham will challenge Williams and Brown.

SOME RAIN AT LAST.

Nearly an Inch During the Night, to an Accompaniment of Thunder and Lightning.

At last there has been some rain. It began Wednesday evening about 8:30, when a few drops fell, but quickly disappeared from the hot sidewalks. Later in the night it rained some, and then there was thunder and lightning—a great deal of it—and more rain. Later still there was more rain, about 6:30 it decided to stop, and since there have been several slight showers.

According to the Water Works gauge the rainfall up to 6 o'clock this morning was .95, or close to an inch. This is the biggest thing in the rain line since last May. In June the total fall was only .32 of an inch, and in July 1.29. This is probably the least rainfall the city has had in two consecutive months in years. Perhaps there is no record of two consecutive months with so little precipitation.

The lightning is reported to have struck the electric pole line near the residence of Mr. E. A. Brown in Middletown and to have knocked off a cross-arm.

ROCKS IN THE HARBOR BUOYED.

Two horizontal striped buoys have been placed in the harbor to the eastward of the channel and about south of the south end of Goat island. One is about opposite Brown & Howard's wharf and the other about opposite the power station. They mark two rocks uncovered during the recent dredging, which were situated so close to the channel that it was deemed best to buoy them. One has 14 feet and one 18 feet of water over it.

DAVID T. PINNIGER.

Death of Well-Known Coal Merchant, in Business Forty-One Years.

Native and Life-Long Resident of Newport, Prominent in Sons of the Revolution.

Mr. David T. Pinniger, president of the Pinniger & Manchester Coal Company, died early this morning at his home on Broadway, after an illness of several weeks. He had been in poor health for a long time and for three months had not been able to attend to business. Recently he had failed rapidly. He was 76 years old.

A native of Newport, Mr. Pinniger had spent all his life here. He was a son of William Pinniger, who for many years was city sealer of weights and measures and inspector of kerosene, and a grandson of Thomas Arnold, captain in the Rhode Island infantry under Colonel Christopher Greene in the Revolutionary war. The deceased was educated in the public schools of Newport, and when a young man entered the employ of the late Julius Sayer.

Later he was employed by the late Joseph Braford and learned the coal business. In 1871 he formed a partnership with Mr. A. Russell Manchester and started a coal and wood business, in which he continued until his death. The partnership continued until 1904, when the Pinniger & Manchester Company was organized, Mr. William H. Clarke, who had been a clerk for several years, becoming a member of the corporation. Mr. Pinniger was elected president of the company and continued to hold that position until his death. He had been in the business for 41 years.

Mr. Pinniger was a member of the Rhode Island Society, Sons of the Revolution, through his grandfather, Captain Thomas Arnold. In this organization he had served as an alternate to the General Society and as a member of the board of managers. He was a member of the V. D. Club, an organization of well known young men in Newport a generation ago. Later he joined the old Newport Business Men's Association and became a member of the Miantonomi Club when that organization was started, retaining his membership until his death.

He is survived by a widow, who was Miss Clara Atkinson of this city.

FOR REAR ADMIRAL WARD.

Farewell Dinner on Flagship Louisiana—Luncheons and Social Entertainments.

A dinner was given by Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow on flagship Louisiana Wednesday evening, as a farewell to Rear Admiral Aaron Ward, who today relinquished the command of the First division of the Atlantic fleet. The table was decorated with American Beauty roses and small American and admirals' flags, and the band of the Louisiana played during the dinner.

The guests included Rear Admiral Willard H. Brownson (retired), Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet; Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, commander of the Third division; Captain W. R. Shoemaker, of the General Board; Captain Frank K. Hill, chief of staff of the Atlantic fleet; Captains W. S. Benson, Harry S. Knapp, John Hood, Hugh Rodman, John A. Hoogewerff, Frederick L. Chapin, Roger Wells and H. P. Jones, commanding the ships of the fleet; Captain E. W. Eberle, commanding the Atlantic torpedo flotilla; Captain W. H. G. Bullard, commanding the San Francisco, and Lieutenants T. R. Kuntz, Roger Williams, R. F. Zogbaum, Jr., W. S. Anderson, L. Noyes, F. Russell and L. H. Lacy.

Captain J. A. Hoogewerff and the officers of the Kansas gave a dance on board the battleship from 4 to 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The quarterdeck was enclosed with American flags and ship signals and the Kansas band played for dancing. A large number of summer residents of Newport and Jamestown were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Moreland gave the first in a series of dinners at "Stoneacre" Wednesday evening, having Prince Regamal to entertain their guests with Hindoo mystery. Mrs. George L. Rives gave a dinner for young people at "Swanhurst," in honor of the birthday anniversary of her daughter, Miss Mildred Rives. Count and Countess Laszlo Szechenyi entertained at dinner at "The Breakers," followed by informal dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Harriman gave a dinner at their residence, "The Pines," on Clay street.

Luncheons were given Wednesday by Mrs. Sidney Jones Colford, Jr., at "Claradon," by Mrs. Stanley McCormick at the d'Hauteville cottage, by Mrs. Clarence W. Dolan at her cottage, "Seaweed," near Bailey's beach, and by Mrs. Richard T. Wilson at the Wilson cottage.

MAY BE THE WRECK OF NAVAL TUG NINA.

What is believed to be the remains of naval tug Nina has been found off Winter Quarter shoal by the revenue cutter service. The Nina was lost off Hog Island February 5, 1910. She had steamed from Norfolk, her destination being Boston. On board was a crew of 22 men, the tug being in command of Boatswain John S. Croghan. She never reached Boston or any other port.

MUST NOT DRINK.

Like almost all transportation lines, the Lackawanna has had a rule prohibiting the indulgence of its employes in alcoholic stimulants while on duty, the habitual use of them or the frequenting of places where they are sold. An amended rule leaves no loophole. The prohibition is absolute so far as it applies to men engaged in the moving of trains. It makes no difference whether they are on or off duty, they are notified that any indulgence whatever will be regarded as a sufficient reason for their dismissal, and though this attitude may be thought somewhat drastic, the company is justified in the belief that it will have the approval of the travelling public, which includes about everybody.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE MEETING.

Interesting Addresses on Responsibility and Importance of the Ballot.

An interesting public meeting was held at the rooms of the Newport County Woman Suffrage League Wednesday afternoon. Miss Cora Mitchel, the president, in the chair.

The first address was by Miss Mary Green, who has lived in Persia. She spoke of the drudgery performed by the Persian woman, of the child marriages, wife beating, the value of the woman as $20 in blood money, and the curse of polygamy among the Mohammedans.

Mrs. James Griswold Wentz, president of the Woman's Republican Club in New York, the next speaker, characterized this age as a tremendously interesting one, in which women all over the world are awakening. With this added interest comes added responsibility. The responsibility of the woman—the mother, teacher and developer of the race—is greater than that of the man. There have always been objections to progress, but these have been finally overcome.

Mrs. Wentz spoke of the rights of woman in New York. If a man dies leaving no will and no children his widow receives one-third of his real estate and one-half of his personal property. On the other hand, if a woman dies intestate and childless, her husband has everything. Mrs. Wentz believes that there will never be universal laws against child labor, equal property rights or national divorce laws until woman has the ballot. Women stand for the best and the highest; the great majority of them are moral, and they are ever the complement of men.

In answer to the objection to the ignorant vote of women Mrs. Wentz stated that women per capita are better educated than men. Only five and one half per cent of the criminals in this country are women and in Denver, where the suffrage is granted to women, it is found that the dissolute women will not register. The opposition of women to the ballot is due largely to conservatism and ignorance of what this opportunity for the expression of opinion really means.

The speaker gave an interesting account of what has been accomplished along the line of woman suffrage since 1838. She does not believe in an unrestricted vote, but thinks the suffrage should be given only to those who can read and write. By placing the intelligence of woman by the side of the intelligence of man there will be gained the greatest good for the greatest number.

The last speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Frank K. C. Page of Boston, a well-known political worker and president of the Boston Equal Suffrage League. She is a woman who visits the meetings of the school committee, the state house, the probate court, etc, and has accomplished a great deal. She maintains that education is the basis upon which all woman suffrage work should stand.

NOTES FROM THE BEACH.

Providence Sunday School Entertained at Dinner—Drilling the Life Patrol.

Rev. P. E. Blessing, D. D., of the cathedral in Providence, entertained the teachers of the Sunday School, about 100 in number, at a dinner at the beach Wednesday. A shore dinner was not desired, and it was proved that the beach dining room has the resources of a city restaurant, for an excellent meat dinner was served. This is the case every day, in fact, since not every one who visits the beach cares for sea food. Souvenir menus were printed for the occasion and announced the courses as follows:

Clam Chowder, a la Manhattan, or Bouillon in Cups.
Olives. Celery. Pickles.
Broiled Bluefish, Butter Sauce.
Julienne Potatoes.
Roast Lamb, Caper Sauce.
Green Island Corn on Cob. Creamed Onions.
Island Potatoes. Sweet Potatoes.
Lobster Salad.
Derry Pie, with Ice Cream.
Demi-Tasse.

Dr. Wolcott of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps was at the beach Wednesday drilling the members of the life patrol in the various work of life saving according to the rules of that organization. For years the corps has been endeavoring to give the beach the benefit of its study of life saving and equipment and the present management has accepted the offer of assistance. It is expected that many of the guards will join the organization, which will supply the beach with one of its boats and other equipment. There will be other instruction of the beach patrol, and later it is expected that there will be a field day of the corps of Rhode Island, at which time there will be an exhibition of its work, at the beach.

A STANDARD OIL GASOLINE BOAT.

The Standard Oil Company has gone into the gasoline boat business. There was a time when David Davis ran a boat for the Standard Oil, but he dropped over to the Texas Company and his boat went with him. Then he secured another and there were two Texas boats going. Tunning tried running his small launch as a gasoline supply boat, but quit and the Standard was again without a supply boat in the harbor. Now it has one. It is called the Delivery and comes from Rockland, Maine, where a new and larger boat has been put on duty and this old craft was sent to Newport. Captain Christian Luth has been placed in charge. The Delivery has a capacity of 3,500 gallons.

THOUSANDS OF FLIES KILLED.

Tony Mazzoni and Lucille Peckham Take Prizes for Largest Numbers.

Other Winners and Some of the Amusing Incidents of the Campaign.

The campaign against the fly was concluded Wednesday afternoon, when all the collectors turned their last consignments into the office of the Tuberculosis Society. Then came the long process of making the final computations and finding who were the winners of the prizes offered for the month of July by the Anti-Fly Campaign committee.

It was late in the evening when the full returns were completed, but it was known some time earlier that the first prize for boys would go to Tony Mazzoni, who was far in advance of all others. He reported as late as possible in the afternoon and when his record was made it was found that he had turned in 69,720 flies. Tony will receive one of the $10 prizes. Lucille Peckham also receives a $10 prize, for the largest number brought in by a girl.

Daniel Crowell and Anna Sullivan will receive $5 each, James Healy and Etta Johnson $3 each, and the $2 each for the next five and $1 each for the next 10 are to be given to George Grant, Francis O'Brien, Charles Genser, John Amoruso, Alfred Edward, May McAuliffe, Catherine Sullivan, Pauline Martins, Catherine Lawton, Lillie Morris, Mary Mallettr, Marian Edgar and Margaret Sweeney.

While no such large number of flies has been killed in Newport as have been reported in other places, the committee is satisfied that a good work has been done here. Not only have a large number of dead flies been returned in at the office, but there has been a growing feeling among the citizens against the pest and many have been induced to "swat the fly" on account of the campaign which has been waged.

Miss Akerley and her assistant, Miss Coffin, who have received the flies at the rooms of the Tuberculosis Society in the Aquidneck Bank building, have had some interesting experiences during the four weeks of the campaign. The last week was especially busy. Some of the more enthusiastic fly catchers came twice and three times a day, bringing the insects to be counted and credited to the various accounts. Some of the smaller children had in their boxes a small number, while others brought from 1,000 to 5,000 at a time, and all were to be counted or measured.

Some started only during the last week. Tony, who won the first prize with 69,720 flies, began early and kept at work during the entire month. No place was exempt from his crusade, houses, stores, markets and stables contributing to his total. It mattered not where they were; they were flies, and by him counted as victims—enemies. He had a business air about him and went into and continued in the campaign with an energy which ensured success.

When asked what he is going to do with his money, he said he would buy a new suit of clothes with a part of it and give the rest to his mother. Earlier in the year, before the July campaign was on, when one cent was given for every 12 flies brought in, Tony earned a few cents and went to the Lappin sale to buy something for the baby with his money.

Another prize winner proposes to buy her winter clothes and a pair of new shoes. Earlier in the season one collector earned enough pennies to buy his sister a pair of gloves. One little boy, who is quite a favorite with all with whom he comes in contact, is not yet decided whether he will give half his money to his mother or take his sister to the beach for a day's outing.

One little girl brought in seven sheets of fly-paper covered with flies, and when remonstrated with, because she did not kill them in the same way the other children did, replied that she did. She had killed them all with a broom and then placed them on fly paper.

One morning a boy hurried in with a trap filled with live flies, and in his excitement lifted the trap by the top, which became loose, the office being filled with hundreds of the released insects. The same little fellow came into the office two days later and found a little girl there who had just entered the contest. She had only a few flies and the more enterprising young business man told her she stood no chance for the prizes. She offered to sell out for a cent, and the bargain was at once consummated.

Some of the children who are not acquainted with the harm which the fly can do were quite puzzled and asked amusing questions. Three boys were anxious to know what they made of the dead flies, and when the reply was "ashes," were quite non-plussed. The majority of them, however, could tell why the fly "must go." There were many who did not win a prize this year because they did not "bother" at first or did not hear of the campaign early enough. They will realize another year that the "early bird catches the worm." Judging from the apparent enthusiasm now, the campaign next summer promises to be an even greater success than this year.

NO CRIMINAL CHARGES.

The police went back on the reporters this morning, for there was "nothing doing" at the station. This does not mean that no one was there, only that the judge had no cases to consider. He had one boy charged with throwing stones into a building. He gave him a lecture, there being no criminal charge. A man who was charged with not having the rear light on his car burning said it went out and he did not know it. Again there was no criminal charge. A sailor was turned over to the police from steamer Priscilla for not having a ticket when he left the boat. A friend called and paid the price of a ticket and he was allowed to go.
